WOMAN PLAYS MAN'S GAME TO WIN ELECTION

Mrs. McCormick Beat Old Organization and Developed One of Her Own

A master of political strategy—not just a woman beneficiary of her husband's prestige—has won the Republican nomination for United States senator in Illinois.

Mrs. Medill McCormick, better known as Ruth Hanna McCormick, turned the tables on the man who defeated her husband six years ago—a defeat from whose shattering blow he died broken in spirit.

Other women have won statewide elections but none has won the nomination of a major party for the United States senate. Unless there is some unexpected turn of the tide in a normally Republican state like Illinois, Mrs. McCormick may be the first woman actually elected to the United States senate. Mrs. Felton of Georgia sat for a day as a complimentary appointee.

The methods by which Mrs. McCormick won are perhaps more significant nationally than the fact that a woman won at all against a man who actually has held seat in the senate. She won won practical politics—she won at man's game. And in this, the tenth anniversary year of women's suffrage, it may be argued whether women will continue to battle much on his own ground or develop an appeal all her own.

But the facts are that Mrs. McCormick did not eschew the usual political instrumentalities and attempt to run a holier-than-thou campaign against Senator Deneen. When public life, he had to accept the nomination from the hands of political bosses who controlled a convention. When Mrs. McCormick wanted to go to the senate she had a much harder problem than any one faced in a convention. She had to beat the organization which controlled the primaries or develop an organization of her own. She did both to be on the safe side.

PREPARED FOR PROBE
Being possessed of ample funds of her own, she did not involve herself in any obligations to any interests and she is said to have prepared her campaign with the idea that it would be an open book for the investigation.

Kohler Case Opens Apr. 21 In Sheboygan

Judge Gustave Gehrz of Milwaukee Will Preside at Hearing

Sheboygan (AP)—The Progressive Republican suit seeking removal of Gov. Walter J. Kohler from office will be heard before Judge Gustave Gehrz of Milwaukee, in circuit court here April 21 starting at 9 o'clock a. m., Judge James A. Wickham, chairman of the board of circuit judges, announced in a letter received today by Eugene A. Hickey, clerk of the court.

Judge Wickham's letter contained no other information. It was accepted as notification to the clerk to prepare for the trial. Judge Wickham of Eau Claire, who ruled favorably the governor's demurrer to the suit, then saw his ruling upset by the state supreme court, this ordering the case to trial, set the date for the hearing as head of the circuit judges organization. "This group and attorneys asked him to supervise the matter when Judge Edwin Vogt of Sheboygan withdrew. Judge Wickham heard the demurrer argument on petition of interested lawyers and judges, who asked him to sit rather than appoint another judge.

Governor Kohler is charged with violating the state corrupt practices act by using more than $4,000 in his 1928 campaign. Progressive leaders pressing the suit contend the governor spent nearly $100,000. He also is charged with giving free meals to voters at his Kohler, Wis., model village, with issuing favors such as paper matches, contrary to law, with using corporation employees (the Kohler plant) to promote his campaign.

KOHLER'S VIEWPOINT

The governor's demurrer argued that the corrupt practices act, which the Progressives claim prohibits these things, thus demands qualifications for the office in excess of those set by the constitution and is therefore unconstitutional.

The executive also answered that his filing of an expense account just short of the $4,000 limit was true and that other money spent in the election was used in his behalf by county and other organizations without his knowledge or consent.

The supreme court ruled that the legislature has power to enact laws prohibiting frauds and excessive use of funds in elections, said the arguments on amounts spent, who spent them and how they were spent were beside the point of constitutionality and that the case therefore must go to trial on its merits.

The case was started in Dane County (Madison) and taken to the Sheboygan circuit under change of venue, the governor alleging prejudice in the capital county, and demanding that his right to be tried in his home county be granted.

HUBER NAMES COUNSEL, DEMANDS SPEEDY TRIAL

Madison (AP)—William Ryan, Madison attorney, will be Lieut. Gov. Henry Huber's counsel when he goes to trial for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act. The lieutenant governor, in announcing the selection of attorney Ryan, said he had directed his counsel to make every arrangement for a speedy trial. "There should be no delay," he said.

TWO NEGROES KILLED TRYING TO ROB BANK

Fort Worth, Texas (AP)—Two Negroes who attempted to rob the First State bank of Politechnic, a suburb, were shot to death today in the bank. Assistant Cashier J. M. Fry was wounded, perhaps fatally. Police had been given a tip that the robbery was planned and city detectives had been stationed in the bank.

Coolidge To Stay Out Of Public Office, He Writes

New York (AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge, in a copyrighted article in the May issue of Hearst's International and Cosmopolitan, writes that he has no intention of returning to public life.

"The former president gives his views on prohibition, the tariff, playing the market, the suggestion that he run for senator, the talk of another term and 'minding one's own business.'"

"When I left Washington I left public office," Mr. Coolidge says. "It is an incomprehensible relief and I have no intention of returning to it. 'If I were in the senate,' he adds, 'I would not be agreeable to many of my colleagues, and with all my desires to be helpful it would probably offend them to be an embarrassment to the administration. ## ALL POSTAL LEASES MAY BE EXAMINED

Blaine's Charges of Fraud and Negligence Denied by Postmaster General

BULLETIN
Washington (AP)—The senate today voted to retain the provision in the postoffice appropriation bill stipulating that no funds shall be paid during the forthcoming fiscal year for upkeep of the commercial postoffice station in St. Paul. The vote was 35 to 25.

BULLETIN
Washington (AP)—A formal statement charging Postmaster General Brown with "deliberately attempting to mislead the senate with respect to the leasing of a postoffice building at St. Paul," was issued today by Representative Maas, Republican, Minnesota.

Washington (AP)—Charges of fraud and culpable negligence leveled at the postoffice department by Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, today forecast a senate investigation of all property leases under which that branch of the government is now operating.

Staunchly denying the Wisconsin Senator's accusations, the administration looked forward to such an inquiry as a means of disproving the charges. Postmaster General Brown said he welcomed the investigation. Blaine, nevertheless, clung to his position and urged the adoption of his resolution to institute the inquiry. With regular Republican support indicated, by Pass of Ohio, he expected a vote of approval before adjournment today.

The controversy centered upon a lease executed in 1921 for a postoffice building in St. Paul which was abrogated in February of last year. An annual rental fee of $120,000 was stipulated. Blaine asserted that this sum was one-third of the value of the building and that bonds had been set upon the expected government return.

FESS SCORES BLAINE

The charges of fraud were vigorously denied late yesterday by Fess, who also took Blaine to task for using his "cloak of senatorial immunity" to make "insinuations" against Postmaster General Brown and the justice department.

Fess asked that the investigation be authorized and went on to read into the record a statement from Brown saying that he had never seen the papers of the St. Paul transaction as they had been in the hands of the justice department since he took office. He asserted that he welcomed an investigation of all the leases he had negotiated.

Blaine, in reply, said that "there has been guilty knowledge of fraud and the postoffice department is culpably negligent in the performance of its duty."

He insisted that all the 1,200 post-office department leases be investigated and asserted that "there has apparently been a design to suppress and hush (this thing) up. There has not been cooperation between members of congress and the attorney general and the attorney general stands responsible for that."

TREASURY-POSTOFFICE BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Washington (AP)—The treasury and postoffice appropriation bill carrying the annual allotment of $15,000,000 for prohibition enforcement was passed today by the senate. The bill provides $1,150,000,000 for next year's expenses of the two departments, an increase of more than $2,000,000 in the amount provided by the house.

No effort was made to change the $15,000,000 prohibition fund. The principal senate increase was $1,500,000 for transportation of mail by aircraft.

FLIER BADLY HURT FEW HOURS AFTER WIFE GETS DIVORCE

San Antonio, Texas (AP)—First Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland, who commanded the first airplane to fly from the Pacific coast to Hawaii, today was in an army hospital here suffering from a crushed chest and cuts on the face, the result of an accident yesterday in which his automobile was struck by a bus.

The accident occurred a few hours after his wife, Mrs. Ruth Thurston Maitland, was granted a divorce at Las Vegas, Nev. She charged nagging and other mental cruelties. The Maitlands have one child, five years old.

At the time of the accident Maitland was driving near Kelly field, where the aviator has been stationed since December, 1929. He gained fame in 1928 when he flew to Hawaii in an army plane, accompanied by Lieut. Albert H. Gemberger. Before the flight across the Pacific ocean the aviator was stationed at McCook field Dayton, Ohio. He is 32 years old.

KIDNAPING IS LAID TO DOOR OF SUSPECTS

Confessions Also Made of Robbery, Hi-Jacking, Passing Bad Checks

Milwaukee (AP)—Confessions of kidnaping, robbery, hi-jacking and passing worthless checks by five men and two women to police of West Allis, a suburb, today led the officers to confer with the district attorney.

Starting with the arrest of one woman in the act of cashing a worthless check, police unraveled activities of the gang yesterday. They include the kidnaping of Gilbert Ghores, 22, Jan. 8. Those arrested are:

John and May Collier, 40 and 45 respectively, of Wauwatosa, and their adopted daughter, Bessie; Walter Kiewit, 35, ice truck driver; James Miller, 45, Collier's brother-in-law; Charles Wright, 25, West Allis, and Wesley Christenson, 25, Milwaukee.

The kidnaping of Ghores puzzled West Allis police for two months. He was taken as he put his car in the family garage. A bullet scar slipped over his head, a gun poked in his ribs and he was taken to an apparently abandoned house. The next morning he was taken to a point several miles from a suburban railroad station, shoved off the truck into which he had been bundled, and forced to stand with his back to it while his abductors drove away. He stumbled through a snow-storm to his home.

ADMIT KIDNAPING

Kiewit, police said, confessed Collier used the sack and gun and they used Kiewit's car to take Ghores away. Collier had worked for the Ghores family. He was leader in the kidnaping scheme, Kiewit said.

Collier dictated the ransom letter the youth was forced to write to his mother, demanding $10,000. Kiewit confessed, according to police.

The gang arrests started when Mrs. Collier was picked up yesterday in connection with issuance of a hold check. From her admissions police traced Bessie Collier and arrested her in the act of passing another check, which, with others, she said Collier had helped write.

Last night police surrounded the Collier home and found Collier and Miller in a chicken coop, a shotgun and revolver at their sides. They offered no resistance, however. The others were rounded up one by one.

SENATE ORDERS PROBE OF ALL CAMPAIGN FUNDS

MAY START DRIVE TO CLEAN UP RESERVATION

Shawano (AP)—A drive to eliminate bootlegging on the Menominee Indian reservation was forecast today by Lieut. Jensen, superintendent, who had issued a formal statement condemning present conditions. Lieut. Jensen said the situation rapidly was becoming critical.

WOMAN GIVEN $25,000 IN LAWSUIT FOR BALM

New York (AP)—Mrs. Adelaide Kaufman, 53, divorced wife of Charles Kaufman, a Detroit banker, was today awarded $25,000 by a jury in supreme court in her $25,000 breach of promise suit against Charles E. Harman, 67-year-old millionaire bachelor.

LINDBERGH LIGHT TO BE BUILT IN CHICAGO

Chicago (AP)—Lindbergh light, an aerial beacon 600 feet above Michigan avenue atop the Palmolive building, will be built this summer. In disclosing the plans yesterday, Elmer Sweeney, its inventor and donor, said the two billion candle power gleam will enable pilots to read charts 50 miles away.

Chicago (AP)—Chicago's 700,000 boys are to be asked to take an oath of loyalty to Chicago in the campaign "to restore to Chicago her good name." Boys' week, May 11-21, has been designated for the ceremony.

"One of the most beautiful ceremonies of ancient Greece was when the boys took the oath of loyalty to their city," said George W. Dixon, president of the Boys' Week federation. "Why should not such an event be made impressive and helpful? I believe it will stimulate the boys to a conscious pride in their city and to devoted efforts to improve it. It will mean a better Chicago in years to come."

May Appoint Committee For State Labor Study

Governor Urged to Appoint Group to Plan Stabilization of Employment

Madison (AP)—As a result of a conference held yesterday, the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association will make a state-wide survey of employment conditions and suggest immediate remedies, Gov. Walter Kohler announced today. The governor said he had conferred with George F. Kull, secretary of the association, "with reference to the employment situation, trend and prospects in the state."

Madison (AP)—Passage of a resolution asking the governor to appoint a "state-wide citizens' committee to study the unemployment problem and to plan for employment stabilization featured a conference of Wisconsin bankers, labor leaders, social workers and manufacturers here yesterday.

Governor Kohler opened the conference which had been called by the industrial commission. He attacked his critics who have condemned him for not releasing building funds appropriated by the last legislature.

"That money was represented by appropriations and nothing could be done until the state received the cash," the governor explained. He said some of the building projects were underway and that others would be inaugurated when the money is received.

Cooperation between employers, employees and the public was the remedy put forth by R. B. Whyte, general superintendent of the Mac-Whitney company, Kenosha, for the unemployment problem. He advocated an education program.

No other damage was reported in Sacramento although dishes rattled in various sections of the city.

MEDICINE MAN DIES AFTER HE SCORNS HELP FROM WHITES

Shawano (AP)—Refusing "devil medicines" of the white man and depending upon incantations of his tribesmen to cure him, Che-Qua-Ki-Ka-Tuppi, Shooting Star chief medicine man of the Menominee Indians, died yesterday.

All the rites of a half-dozen brothers medicine men failed to save the life of the chief. He would have nothing to do with reservation doctors or hospitals.

Che-Qua-Ki-Ka-Tuppi, an old man at the time of his death, was one of the few remaining Menominee Indians to know and practice the sacred dances of his forefathers at festive gatherings.

The new Indians, the only dances they knew were American ones. Famous in his youth as an athlete, the medicine man was reportedly most bedeviled of his tribe. He could run faster than a deer, throw a spear, and time he ran 16 miles in 55 minutes. His brother was boasted.

The old Indian will be buried after the practice of his forefathers.

France and Italy to Sign Pact With Controversial Matters Omitted

NAME 3-POWER TERMS Agreement Will Regulate Size of Fleets During Next Six Years

London (AP)—Naval conference experts were understood to have been put to work this afternoon drafting a five-power agreement which both Foreign Ministers Briand of France, and Grandi of Italy, have tentatively agreed to sign as an outgrowth of American intervention this morning.

This treaty, it was said, will in effect be a comprehensive three-power pact between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, but will include numerous points on which all the five powers are agreed and which France and Italy can sign.

The present plan is that controversial matters between France and Italy will be left out and the clauses which exclusively affect the other three powers will be so worded that the two Latin countries will not be involved.

The decision to adopt this procedure was reached this morning after Secretary Stimson had visited Foreign Ministers Briand and Hugh S. Gibson had conferred with Foreign Minister Grandi.

Briand is said to be enthusiastic over this solution and Grandi has also indicated tentative willingness to sign. The Italians have rather been left out of negotiations recently and Grandi is not so convinced with the idea of affixing a seal of official sanction chiefs. Therefore he naturally wishes to know more about what he is expected to sign before he definitely agrees to put his name to it.

THREE NATIONS AGREE

The naval agreement to which the United States, Great Britain and Japan will subscribe soon will regulate the size of the fleets of these three powers for the next six years.

It is understood that a clause providing that it extend for that period and that any nation's right to expression of a new position at the next conference will not be prejudged, will be placed in the treaty. This will allow care of Japan's concessions from the 1910-7 ratio of large cruisers she had claimed.

The figures for the three nations will stand as follows:

United States—Battleships, 15; total cruiser tonnage, 223,500; 8-inch cruisers, 15; 6-inch cruisers, 143,500; destroyers, 150,000 tons; submarines, 32,700 tons.

Great Britain—Battleships, 15; total cruiser tonnage, 339,500; 8-inch cruisers, 15; 6-inch cruisers, 122,000; destroyers, 150,000 tons; submarines, 32,700 tons.

Japan—Battleships, 9; total cruiser tonnage, 290,500; 8-inch cruisers, 12; 6-inch cruisers, 100,450; destroyers, 105,500; submarines, 32,700 tons.

It must be borne in mind that between the United States and Great Britain will exist a so-called optional clause, under which the transfer of cruiser tonnage on the basis of 30,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers equaling 45,000 tons of smaller cruisers, will be permitted to operate. Thus within these maximum transfers will be permitted from large to small cruiser classes and vice versa.

SET AGE LIMITS

Other than ships definitely to be set out in the treaty under the so-called displacement table, it has been agreed that the age limits will be set at 15 years for submarines, 16 for destroyers, and 20 for cruisers. The replacement table will provide certain exceptions on age limits for Japan, and to a lesser degree for Great Britain, in order to keep ships afloat.

The result of the settlement has been to leave Japan at or below her present tonnage in all categories, with minor exceptions, and to effect reductions where found possible, with special emphasis on reduction in submarine tonnage. Japan's figures will stand as follows:

Eight-inch cruisers—108,400 tons, keeping her present fleet. Six-inch cruisers—100,450 tons, an increase of 2,035 tons.

Destroyers—105,500 tons, a reduction of 17,075 from her present fleet. Submarines—32,700 tons, a reduction of 25,142 from her present figures.

The ratios involved for Japan are the following:

- Eight-inch cruisers—60.2.
- Six-inch cruisers—70.
- Destroyers—70.3.
- Submarines—70.
- Total in auxiliaries—69.7.
- Total for entire navy—62.6.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES FOR CIVIL WAR VET

Fond du Lac (AP)—Funeral services will be held today for John Smith, 84, Civil War veteran and G. A. R. member, who was found dead at the home of his daughter here. Dependence on ill health is believed to have caused him to end his own life.

Prohibition Major Issue In Illinois November Election

LEWIS STANDS ON WET PLANK, OPPONENT DRY

Prohibition Forces Accept Challenge from Democrat Nominee

BULLETIN
Chicago—(P)—Ruth Hanna McCormick's lead in her triumph over Senator Charles S. Deneen for the Republican senatorial nomination passed the 200,000 mark today as belated returns from Tuesday's Illinois primary elections were tabulated.

With 6,067 of the state's 7,117 precincts reported, Representative McCormick's vote was given as 617,093, and Deneen's 445,410. Newton Jennings trailed with 126,100.

Chicago—(P)—Prohibition, the hot potato of politics, has been tossed by James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, to Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick as the major issue of their campaign for election next November to the United States senate.

Lewis, a colonel in the Spanish-American war and senate whip in President Wilson's administration, cast off 12 years' retirement and gained the Democratic senatorial nomination without a single campaign effort. Mrs. McCormick, Mark Hanna's daughter and widow of the late Senator Medill McCormick, thrust aside Senator Charles S. Deneen and wrecked his Chicago-Cook-Clay organization to head the Republican ticket this fall.

Mrs. McCormick, before returning to Washington yesterday, declared it was her opposition to the world court that swamped Deneen under a 300,000 plurality. Deneen, the fourteenth world court senator to meet defeat in the nation, accepted Mrs. McCormick's issue and lost. But Lewis, too, is opposed to the world court and in the senate he voted against Wilson's league of nations.

Lewis shot the question of "personal liberty" to the fore soon after Deneen congratulated Mrs. McCormick on her victory. "It is an issue from which I shall not allow any candidate—man or woman—to escape, the former senator said.

MRS. MCCORMICK DRY
In contrast, the politically-minded recalled Mrs. McCormick's campaign statement to the Anti-Saloon league that "I have both personally and politically dry." Her late husband was known as a wet.

To Lewis, the issue is: "Is the American a free man to use his will, subject to just law in governing his life, or is he a servant to be directed to obey, under the penalty of imprisonment and dishonor?"

"The answer to the final question," said the man whom Champ Clark once dubbed the "dandy of the senate," shall the American citizen submit to the official corruption that is continued in the enforcement of the national prohibition law, to the personal degradation of himself and home and to the defilement of sons and daughters by this system, that is put upon the Women's Christian Temperance union accepted the prohibition issue. The latter organization termed Lewis "unalterably wet" and Mrs. McCormick "unalterably dry."

"Should Lewis carry Illinois," the W. C. T. U. statement read, "it is reasonable to believe him a strong possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination—provided the Democrats are still foolish enough to nominate a wet."

Aside from prohibition, the November election will terminate one of the most unusual political cycles in the nation's history.

FORMER CAMPAIGNS
In 1918, Medill McCormick defeated Lewis for reelection to the senate; in the 1924 primary, Deneen defeated McCormick; in Tuesday's primary, McCormick's widow triumphed over Deneen; in the fall election, McCormick's widow faces the man her husband defeated in 1918.

In that election—which sent a Republican majority back to congress—McCormick defeated Lewis by only 50,000 votes.

KNOCKS DOWN BANDIT, EMPTIES HIS PISTOL AND SENDS HIM AWAY

Athens, Mich.—(P)—Rollo Watterman lost none of his aplomb when a young man drove into his filling station, ordered and received five gallons of gasoline and then displayed a pistol as Watterman started to make change.

"See this pistol?" asked the visitor.
"Yes, what of it," replied Rollo by way of keeping the conversation going as he knocked the young man down, nonchalantly removed the cartridges from the weapon, handed it back and then delivered a lecture on proper conduct for motorists. The would-be robber drove hastily away.

Calhoun-co officers were a bit disappointed upon arrival a few minutes later, for the young man was wanted for his holdup in a nearby town and they were hot in pursuit.

Washington in 1897, was wounded in France during the World war. At Chateau Thierry, while observing the movement of supplies, he was struck by a bit of shrapnel. He declined a decoration from King Albert of Belgium because, as he said, an American soldier could not accept such an honor.

He declined to run for the senate again in 1920 and made the race for governor, unsuccessfully. Since 1896, when he was the favorite son candidate of Washington for the vice presidential nomination, Lewis has been active in party conventions, in congress, his first important act was to offer the resolution for the recognition of Cuban independence.

Mrs. McCormick first gained political renown in sweeping the state as a congresswoman-at-large candidate two years ago. She is now one of the eight women in the house of representatives.

She said her first political venture was in 1896, when as secretary to her father, she toured the country in President McKinley's first campaign. She overhauled the Deneen forces with the support of Mayor Thompson's city hall machine out of political control by Deneen in the 1928 primary.

As to Deneen, his only statement outside of a message to his supporters and the congratulatory note to Mrs. McCormick was brief.

"I am still in politics," he told newspapermen.

SUPERVISORS TO NAME PERSONS FOR JURY DUTY

Blanks were sent out Wednesday by Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, to town, city and village supervisors in the county asking them to recommend names of men for jury duty. Each of the town and village supervisors and the supervisors in each ward in cities outside of Appleton, are permitted to send in the names of from four to six men for duty in municipal court. Each supervisor in Appleton submits the names of from 24 to 30 Appleton persons for jury duty. No woman serve on municipal court juries in this county.

The reason Appleton supervisors submit so many more names than other supervisors is because there are usually two jury boxes, one composed entirely of Appleton men and the other composed of men from all districts in the county.

Supervisors must return their jury lists on or before May 1.

High Price Of Movies Leads To Student Riot

Charlottesville, Va.—(P)—University of Virginia students today were in a state of high excitement following a riot last night in protest to increased admission prices at two local theatres.

Two students were in the university hospital, dozens of others were pierced with a plea for arbitration by President Edwin A. Alderman of the university, hundreds of students continued to mill about the town long after midnight.

Led by a drum corps, nearly a thousand students mobilized on the university campus early last night, at the tolling of the chapel bell, and marched down Main-st to the theatre. Leaders of the demonstration gained a conference with the management, and while they were inside, their followers showered the front of one of the theatres with eggs, broke electric light bulbs and blocked traffic.

A policeman cautioned a student against his actions, and was thrown to the sidewalk and roughly handled. Almost the entire police force was called out.

After President Alderman intervened the students agreed to submit the matter to arbitration between a student committee and Fred Twyman, theatre manager. A conference will be held Friday.

"College Topics," the university newspaper in an editorial, yesterday had urged the boycott of the theatres because the admission prices had been raised at the showing of special pictures.

LUTHERAN CHOR WILL SING HERE

Seminary Organization to Appear in Memorial Chapel April 21

Clarence A. Johnson of Chicago, a student at the Augustana Theological Seminary of Rock Island, Ill., for two seasons has been active director of the Lutheran A Cappella choir which will appear in Lawrence Memorial Chapel, Monday evening, April 21. He has the distinction of being one of the charter members of the organization, singing under the baton of its founder and first director, Dr. Otto H. Bostrom, now located at Marquette, Michigan, whom he succeeded.

Johnson has a varied musical background, having studied under Herman DeVries of Chicago, as well as the Cosmopolitan School of Music. Aside from his directorship of The Lutheran A Cappella Choir of the Tri-Cities, ranks high among church choir directors of the three cities, being in charge of both the senior and junior choral groups at St. John's Lutheran Church, Rock Island. He is also identified with the Seminary Male Chorus in a like capacity. Johnson has, on several occasions, broadcasted with a quartet of which he is a member, over radio station WOC.

In the present director the choir ideal of musicianship and hallowed art has found a representative of rare power. His finished conceptions and the exquisite shading have added new resources to the choir's past accomplishments. The St. Paul Pioneer-Press says: "The accomplishment of the director was plain to be discovered in the beautiful precision of attack and in the skillful method of creating the mood of reverence, of fervor, of elevation." Glen Aumond, writing in the Kalamazoo Gazette comments: "The Lutheran Choir and its gifted director, Mr. Johnson, have lifted their eyes to the stars—the result is perfect art."

Johnson also is a tenor of marked ability. During his past years connections with the local musical organizations he has appeared as soloist in various oratorio presentations.

CENSUS TO SUPPLY BUSINESS FACTS ON RETAILERS' LINES

Corbett Receives Data from Chairman of Advisory Committee

The census on distribution will supply a classified body of business facts on the number of retailers by different lines, volume of business, classification of commodities they sell, some beginnings of knowledge of the volume of commodities which are sold through different trades, some comparison between the volume of sales of one class of trade and another in different territories, more basic information for the manufacturer in formulating sales quotas and facts for jobbers and retailers on the volume of business and the percentages they handle.

This information was received Wednesday morning by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, from Frederick M. Fleker, chairman of the advisory committee on the census of distribution, and managing director of Associated Business Papers.

Dr. Robert J. McFall, chief statistician for the division of distribution, bureau of census says the census will show the number of various types of store which handle the various commodities in each community, volume of sales of each type of store, where time, energy and money probably is being wasted, and whether the clerks and salesmen of one business are doing as well as those in the same line generally.

Asides from local appearances Johnson has also carried the tenor solos in oratorio work at both Chicago and Marquette, Mich.

50 PER CENT DUTY IS RECOMMENDED ON FOURDRINIER WIRE

Rate Is Fixed by Conference Committee of Senate and House

The tax on imported fourdrinier wire has been fixed by the conference committee of the United States House of Representatives and the Senate at 50 per cent of the cost of wire laid down in New York, according to information received here yesterday. This is an increase of 20 per cent over the tariff now in effect and is 5 per cent less than asked by the fourdrinier wire manufacturers. Yet in spite of the increase in tariff, imported wire cost 10 cents per square foot less laid down in New York than the average cost of production of domestic wire in American mills.

The last tariff law fixed the tariff on fourdrinier wire at 55 per cent but soon after the law was enacted the customs court ruled that wire should be classified as parts of paper machinery and the tariff was cut to 30 per cent which was equivalent to about 7.1 cents per square yard. Wire manufacturers, appearing before the House ways and means committee, asked for a 55 per cent duty and that figure was adopted in the House bill, and was approved by the Senate committee, but the Senate finally fixed the tariff at 40 per cent. In conference, however, a compromise of 50 per cent was reached.

A 50 per cent tariff means a duty of about 12 cents a square foot on

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS MEET FRIDAY EVENING

Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will hold their April meeting, Friday evening at the association building. The meeting will begin at 7:30. Directors will hear reports of the finance committee for the quarter of the current year and will name a nominating committee to prepare a slate of candidates for the annual election directors the second Tuesday in May.

The finance committee will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday evening to review the budget preparatory to the meeting of the board of directors.

Imported wire which, importers testified, costs 24.9 cents delivered in New York, making the total cost of foreign wire, in New York, about 37 cents per square foot.

The average cost of production of wire in American plants is 47 cents per square foot, it was testified at the committee hearings in Washington. This cost does not, include, however, the cost of selling nor does it include any factory profit. The price of 37 cents in New York for foreign wire does include the factory profit, the duty and the cost of ocean shipment. Even with the increased tariff foreign wire makers are able to undersell American producers by at least 10 cents per square foot.

It is estimated that a tariff of at least 50 per cent would be required to make up the difference between the cost of production in America and abroad, but wire manufacturers did not believe it advisable to ask for so large an increase.

Maennerchor Meeting
The weekly rehearsal of the Appleton Maennerchor will be held in the Maennerchor rooms on W. College-ave at 7:30 Thursday evening.

Radish Planting Time Is Earlier Than Usual

An early warm spell this year found venturere gardeners taking a chance on planting their radish seed earlier than in several seasons past. They will probably be rewarded as it is a very hardy vegetable.

Radish planting time has arrived over large extents of the country and the sunny vegetable is one that every gardener — planter — appreciates. Scores of varieties of radishes, many that no one could safely select one variety and say positively, "This is the best" and produce anything to prove it. There are early, mid-early, mid-season, and late sorts in round, oval and long types.

The principal point is to select seed of radishes of different seasons of maturity to produce a succession of sunny, tender roots. Scarlet Wonder and French Breakfast of the early round kinds are standard and you can't go wrong — on planting them. White Icicle and Long Scarlet in the larger and later types are as true as the best. The White Icicle has gained more individual popularity than any other radish of recent years both as to appearance and quality.

From the earliest of all sorts of the "round" types now offered in all seedsmen should be planted. They mean a crop in three weeks. Make several sowings a week apart in the very early season to give a succession simply as the season of choice in a radish is brief. If it gets old, starchy and pithy it is useless.

Recently the novelty of beaded radishes has been added to the menu. The kind used — is one of the larger sort of the globe shaped radishes. They have the flavor when cooked of a mild turnip and are an attractive novelty. They may be beaded either with or without feeding.

When endeavoring the radish seed put in a packet of the summer radishes of which earlier is the standard. These will give fine radishes in hot weather which will add zest and punch in salads as well as being excellent for the usual table use.

Now radishes often and make short news as they must be used in a hurry when they are large enough to be eaten. They can then pithy over-right so don't have too long a supply maturing at once.

CALL FOR BIDS ON TRUST FUND DEPOSIT

Bids have been called for by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, from county lands on the 11th of 10 to be added to the courthouse trust fund. This amount was voted into the trust fund last November by the county board and it is just available. The lands must have their bids in by May 15, as the county board finance committee will meet May 16 to open the bids and arrange to deposit the funds.

The clerk now in the courthouse lands fund is the following: 1st National Bank, $10,000; 2nd National Bank, $10,000; 3rd National Bank, $10,000; 4th National Bank, $10,000; 5th National Bank, $10,000; 6th National Bank, $10,000; 7th National Bank, $10,000; 8th National Bank, $10,000; 9th National Bank, $10,000; 10th National Bank, $10,000.

ry when they are large enough to be eaten. They can then pithy over-right so don't have too long a supply maturing at once.

Defense Starts Testimony In Bank Robbery Trial

STATE CALLS 10 WITNESSES TO TAKE STAND

Refuse to Say When "Lie-detector" Will Be Brought into Court

With the opening of the defense Thursday morning the trial of Larry Lawrence and E. H. Stewart, Chicago, on charges of bank robbery, went into its fourth day here Thursday.

The state rested about 10 o'clock after having called ten witnesses, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Peters, cashier and assistant cashier respectively, of the Bank of Black Creek, which is charged Lawrence and Stewart robbed of $733 on Nov. 8, 1928, were the first witnesses and they were on the stand all day Tuesday.

R. D. Bishop, a filling station attendant at Black Creek, was called to the stand just before noon Wednesday. He told how he had heard the bank robbers off and on and was able to get a gun, with which he said he planned to shoot the robbers, he ran toward the bank to get a look at the men.

IDENTIFIES MAN

As he approached the bank, Bishop said, Lawrence came out and put a gun against his stomach. He ordered him to turn and walked to a vacant lot and Bishop said when he turned around the next time the pair was fleeing in a car. Bishop was positive in his identification of Lawrence and the defense could not shake his testimony. Bishop said the reason he refused to make identification of Lawrence when he was being held at Durand, Wis., was because he didn't think it was necessary at the time. He also said he was influenced by Mrs. Peters' refusal to testify.

IDENTIFY STEWART

Harvey Neuman, who is employed in a store at Black Creek, told of running toward the bank when the alarm sounded and of seeing Stewart run from the building and jump into the car and flee. He was positive in his identification of Stewart. Neuman, who also went to Durand to identify the pair when they were held there, said he refused to make the identification because Mrs. Peters also had refused.

Stewart also was identified by Miss Meta Schneider, bookkeeper at the bank. She was in the building when it was held up.

John Brill, proprietor of the Northern hotel, told the court that Stewart and Lawrence had registered at his hotel on Nov. 8 and again on Nov. 8. N. K. Nielsen, Manitowish, Wis., registered at his hotel on Nov. 8, and he was called to corroborate the date.

That Stewart resembled one of the men who took part in the robbery was the testimony offered by Clyde Burdick, Black Creek, employer of Neuman.

Before the defense started its evidence Charles R. Brown, Chicago, one of the defense attorneys, told the jury that the defense would show that Stewart and Lawrence were somewhere else when the crime was committed. He said testimony would show that Stewart and Lawrence had been soliciting business from banks in Wisconsin for some time prior to the robbery and that they continued their regular work after the robbery.

John Wilson of the Commercial garage, Milwaukee, testified that Lawrence Stewart had kept their car in his garage from Oct. 20 to Nov. 20. He said one of the cars was a Chrysler sedan and the other was an Oakland coupe. He couldn't tell, however, whether both cars were out during the week although he said both cars often were out at the same time over weekends.

After Wilson's testimony Mr. Burdick was recalled to the witness stand by District Attorney Stanley A. Steidl to testify that the car used by the robbers at the Black Creek bank was a Ford coupe.

E. C. Jost and Edward Zillmer of the Farmer's State bank of New London and Isadore Markman, a New London storeman, testified that Lawrence and Stewart had been in that city on the afternoon of Nov. 8 and also on the morning of Nov. 8.

No mention has been made by the defense up to noon as to when they planned to bring their "lie-detector" into court. Earlier in the week, the defense told the jury it would introduce the machine to prove Lawrence and Stewart are telling the truth. Thursday the attorneys refused to say when the machine would be brought in although it was expected that the two defendants probably would go on the witness stand on Friday.

The case is expected to go to the jury next week. A night session was held Wednesday in an effort to speed up the trial.

The Oldtimer Asks--

Do You Remember When--

One time we woke up "turned around" in bed and saw what was really the full moon shining in a west window but in our dazed condition we were sure it was a dark lantern held by a robber in a closet in a different part of the room, and how many there just as still as possible but we had to swallow occasionally, and every slightest movement was accompanied by the rustle of the husks in the corn husk mattress we were sleeping on, and we were sure the robber could hear our breathing and our heart beating, until finally we could stand it no longer, and we gave one leap out of bed and raced down stairs and got into bed with our father and mother.

We thought it strange to hear a neighbor boy, whose parents had moved to Appleton from a northern Michigan mining town, say that Appleton had a great reputation for "culture, refinement, and education," and how odd it seemed in a late day summer when everything was parched and brown to hear visitors "Ching" and "Aching" over the beauty of the river banks and ravines? Had it been earlier, when the vegetation was fresh and green, or later when the autumnal coloring had made everything glorious we could have understood it better.

Some of the residents along Union street were E. T. Rogers, Foster, Fernand, Wright, Buck, Mullin, Murray, Jones, Mrs. Miles, Mr. Raymond Humtroy, Gallagher, Plantz, and Bottensell.

Contestants in Heiss Memorial Meet Tonight at High School

Karl Ek, Fred Marshall, Charles Widsten, Bob Mortimer and Clifford Berg, senior high school students, will take part in the Heiss Memorial oratorical contest at 8 o'clock this evening in the high school auditorium. Miss Agnes Liberty coached the contestants.

This contest and the other oratorical contests, which are annual events at the high school, are sponsored by the class of 1918 in honor of William B. Heiss, one of its members. Heiss went to France when war was declared in 1917 and was killed the following year.

Elmer Root, a member of the class of 1916, will preside this evening. George Dams, another member of that class, Mrs. Bertha Barry from the vocational school and Theodore Cloak, head of the dramatic department at Lawrence college, will act as judges.

A trio of high school girls, Mary Brooks, Suzanne Jennings and Eloise Secor, will present musical selections during the program.

The boys who will take part in the orations they will give are: Karl Ek, "Salvage" by Paul Scheats; Fred Marshall, "Influence of the Press on World Peace" by Myron Phillips; Charles Widsten, "Martyrs of Progress" by Leland Ross; Bob Mortimer, "Ropes" by Stanford Clinton; Clifford Berg, "The Blundering Giant" by Ruth Sherer.

A CAPELLA CHOIR TO SING AT NEXT VESPER SERVICE

Interdenominational Vesper Is Scheduled at Methodist Church

On Palm Sunday afternoon, an Interdenominational Vesper service will be conducted at the First Methodist Episcopal church. The musical portion of the service will be presented by the Lawrence college A Capella choir, an ensemble of 50 selected voices, under the direction of Carl J. Waterman, dean of the Lawrence Conservatory.

This group was organized in October for the purpose of presenting to Appleton audiences the finest compositions written for unaccompanied singing. Since their organization, the A Capella choir has sung several times, at a Methodist church Vesper Service, and in college convocation, with very much success, winning praise from lovers of music for their fine ensemble work, intonation, and interpretation.

The A Capella choir will be assisted on Sunday by a mixed quartet composed of Helen Mueller, contralto, Gertrude Farrell, soprano, Earl Miller, bass, and George Nixon, tenor, who will sing several numbers. The organ prelude and accompaniments for the quartet, and hymns, will be played by La Vahn Maesch, organist of the First Congregational Church. Miss Mueller, Mr. Nixon are from the quartet of the Congregational Church, and Miss Farrell and Mr. Miller are from the Methodist Quartet.

The A Capella choir will be arranged for atypical singing, with part of the choir in the choir loft, and part in the balcony. Compositions which they will sing include "Adrianus Te", a great motet by Telemann; "Gloria Patri" by the same composer; "Rachmaninoff's 'Cherubic Hymn'; 'Beautiful Savior' by Christians; 'Kyrie Eleison (Lord Have Mercy) from Gounod's 'Messa Solenne'; and Mozart's 'Gloria' from the Twelfth Mass.

The quartet will sing "Blessed Jesus" from the "Stabat Mater" of Dvorak, and Wolcott's "Thy Will Be Done". Mr. Maesch will play "The Garden of Gethsemane" by R. Deane Shure, an organ prelude.

The service will start at 4:30 Sunday afternoon.

LIGHT STATION OPERATORS HOLD TWO DAY SCHOOL

U. W. Extension Division, Industrial Commission Sponsor Course

Between 25 and 30 operators of headlight testing stations from the territory around Appleton will finish a two day instruction course Thursday afternoon under direction of the University of Wisconsin extension department and members of the electrical department of the state industrial commission.

The school is being held at the garage of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company where operators have access to lecture rooms and a company testing station designed for power company busses and cars by William E. Schubert, chief engineer of the company.

With the recent passage of the state headlight law and the resultant number of headlight testing stations, licensing of operators was ordered by the state industrial commission. The University of Wisconsin extension division and industrial commission outlined a course of instruction and are holding schools in various cities. The school for operators in this section of the state is the one closing today. It opened Wednesday.

Morning sessions have been devoted to lectures in the power company's lecture rooms at the garage. University of Wisconsin instructors led the discussions. The afternoon sessions are devoted to practical work in testing lights, various operators correcting the trouble which is explained by the instructors.

The power company equipment for testing lights is the latest and is complete in every detail. The station was installed because commercial stations do not have facilities for handling big busses and trucks. A dark room permits the lights to be accurately tested at any time of the day.

39 CENSUS TAKERS DISCUSS PROBLEMS AT MEETING HERE

F. J. Jonet, District Head, Presides at Open Forum Session at Courthouse

Problems and difficulties experienced by Outagamie-co census takers were thrashed out at a meeting at the courthouse this morning. Frank J. Jonet, Green Bay, head of the sixth district, in which Outagamie is located, presided at the meeting.

Thirty-nine county workers attended the session at which they were given further instructions on how to conduct their work.

One difficulty which the census takers are meeting is a lack of proper cooperation on the part of the landlords of hotels. Mr. Jonet reported. It would be big aid to the workers, he said, if these people would make an effort to help the census takers in the work which they must complete. Some landlords have been very good about answering questions, Mr. Jonet said, but others refuse to cooperate.

Another troublesome matter is the fact that many school teachers want to be registered in the towns they live in rather than the towns they teach in. Under the law all teachers are registered from the town where they teach, he pointed out, and teachers will be helping the census workers very materially if they will fill out the blanks left at their homes by the census workers.

Many residents consider that the census takers are agent-salesmen. They should make an investigation before they refuse to talk to the persons who call at their homes, it was urged. All census takers carry proper credentials and when these are presented the work would be greatly facilitated if the householder would answer all questions as promptly as possible.

All workers, Mr. Jonet said, even though they are working temporarily in any city, are registered from the boarding place or the residence where they sleep. This is in accordance with the census rules.

Very good progress is being made with the census in Appleton and Outagamie-co, Mr. Jonet said, and on the whole people are cooperating very well. Only a few isolated cases of trouble are being reported.

Meetings similar to the one held here this morning are being staged by Mr. Jonet in all the counties in the district.

The industrial census is being taken in the county by Frank Wolf, Appleton, and Elliott Zekind, Kaukauna. These men are working under an Oshkosh office.

Following are the names of the census takers and the districts in which they will work:

CO-EDS APPROVE MERGER OF GROUPS

Y. W. C. A. and W. S. G. A. Will Be Incorporated Into One Body

Yesterday, in student convocation, the Lawrence college co-eds voted to ratify plans for the new Lawrence Women's association which will incorporate the personnel and duties of the Y. W. C. A. and the Women's Self-government association. Only 20 votes opposed the merger. The new organization, it is stated will retain the ideal of the promotion of a richer spiritual and cultural life, the tenet of the Y. W. C. A., and the judiciary machinery of the W. S. G. A. will continue to rule on and adjust the Lawrence women's activity.

Under the new plan the co-eds will pay dues of three dollars to the Lawrence Women's association, 60 cents of which will go to their own house treasury, thus combining the several contributions necessary before in one sum.

Within a few days election will be held for officers of the new group, which will include chairman of all the activities formerly under the jurisdiction of the individual groups.

EXPERT OUTLINES PLANTING PLANS ON BADGER FARMS

Increased Acreage of Potatoes, Cabbage, Flax Is Predicted

Madison—(P)—A general outline of planting plans of Wisconsin farmers was given Wednesday by Walter H. Ebling, agricultural statistician, in a radio address over WFLA, University of Wisconsin station.

"Advance knowledge of important acreage changes is of value in helping farmers to readjust their plans to meet changing conditions insofar as they can be foreseen," he said. He said the low price of milk was acting as a stimulus for a desire to increase profits through crops.

Dealing with cash crops, he listed them as:

Potatoes—Reports indicate acreage increasing about seven per cent, with 225,000 acres planted this year as compared with 220,000 a year ago.

Tobacco—Reports indicate a nine per cent increase in acreage, with 49,000 acres planted as compared to 47,000 in 1929.

Cabbage—"There will probably be an increased acreage."

Flax—An increase of 30 per cent is indicated for Wisconsin.

Mr. Ebling said he believed an increased potato acreage "not at all out of place."

"It appears from this that if the farmers carry out their intentions to plant potatoes as now indicated, the situation will be very like that of 1927 when the average December 1 price was 96 cents per bushel, which is considered a reasonable return," he said. "In view of the fact that Wisconsin farmers last year reduced their acreage 20 per cent, the slight increase will not be dire."

The tobacco crop last year was easily absorbed, Mr. Ebling said, and a slight increase should not be harmful. "An undue increase is likely to be dangerous, however," he warned.

If cabbage acreage increases too much, Mr. Ebling believes lower prices are inevitable although he considers the manufacture of kraut, which he said is increasing, may absorb the output.

"Increases in flax production have long been recommended to the farmers of the United States," Mr. Ebling said, and he gave the opinion that an increased acreage would be desired.

"This year's planting in the state contemplates increases in the acreages of corn and barley, which are two of our major feed grains and indicate a decrease of oats of about one per cent in acreage as well as a decrease of about two per cent in hay."

Emergency hay crops such as soy beans will show increases, he said. Calculations were made through inquiries of 1,500 farmers in the state.

Outlines Outdoor Trip In Northern Minnesota

BY B. A. CLARLIN

Among the numerous requests received of late asking directions to various parts of the big north country was one from a man living in Columbus, O. In his letter he asked me to point out for him an interesting trip in northern Minnesota. He wanted good fishing but wanted to travel the entire route by auto. At least he wanted to do the major part of his traveling in that manner. He also asked that I give him some pointers in regard to the proper clothing and other equipment to make his trip a pleasure.

As an indication of the general lack of knowledge of conditions in the country which he desires to invade, he suggested that I point out an auto trip through the lake region of the great Arrowhead country. I was forced to tell him that because there are no roads into that country, it is rated as the one remaining region that is still "wild," and that the only means of travel, aside from hiking, which is entirely impractical, is by canoe.

The trip I outlined for him apparently satisfied him fully, and he writes me that he is making arrangements to undertake it in June. I suggested that he drive to Duluth, and from there take the fine road along the northern shore of Lake Superior. It is known as the North Shore Road. This will lead him up along and through Sugar Loaf, Temperance River, Caribou Point and Good Harbor Bay to Grand Marais. From there, via Chicago Bay, Horse-shoe Bay, Big Bay and Red Rock to Grand Portage.

From there the roads points north for about five miles to the famous Pigeon River. Just before this stream enters Pigeon Bay, it bursts down over a falls a hundred and twenty feet high. The scenery is wonderful and the fishing unsurpassed. A few miles up river toward the west is another falls with a drop of nineteen feet. In turn, comes another one of forty-five feet drop, after Split Rock canyon is passed.

From there on a series of falls and lakes greet you all the way, to where you hit the Port Arthur, Duluth and Western railroad as it crosses over into Canada between Gun Flint and Magnetic lakes. On the way to Grand Portage, hundreds of wonderful streams flowing into Lake Superior will be crossed; and the trout fishing in many of them is something my inquirer will long remember.

He will, no doubt, ascend some of these streams by canoe to the many lakes where the big Northern pike and other species of fish will test his tackle to the utmost. Devil Track, Tom, Elephant, Swamp, Greenwood, Otter, Caribou and a host of other lakes teem with fish.

As for his equipment, I pointed out the proper kind of tent, cooking outfit, fishing tackle and, of utmost importance, the necessary clothing. He must have good woollens because, even in June, the weather will be cold at times. Inasmuch as he will do considerable canoe traveling, I stressed the importance of proper footwear. I advised him to procure moccasin shoes for himself and party. Proper attention to one's feet on such a trip spells success to the same degree that neglect will ruin your whole outing.

Talks To Parents

THE LITTLE BULLY
By Alice Judson Peale

Betty never had a chance to play with other children until her parents moved to their present house. The child who had spent hours playing alone in a city apartment or walking wearily by her nurse's side in the park was thrown suddenly into constant contact with a half dozen or more youngsters who lived within a few doors of her house.

She was shy, timid, unsure of herself. There were daily quarrels and upheavals and calls for help, but the worst difficulty of all arose from the fact that Betty, who was 5, seemed bent on preserving the chubby 3-year-old who lived two doors away.

She pushed him off his tricycle. She took his toys away. One day she even emptied upon his head the contents of a toy watering can. In each case she was caught to account, but the grief went on for a week or more.

It was not until Betty had learned to make friends with children of her own age and to feel secure among them that she could be persuaded to let the poor little 3-year-old play in peace.

It frequently happens that children develop streaks of difficult behavior when they are subjected to the necessity of making a new and difficult adjustment.

Betty, thrown for the first time among children, turned out, temporarily at least, to be a bully. She felt inferior to the children of her own age, and the 3-year-old was once a scapegoat for her uneasiness, inferiority feeling, and sense of asserting superiority over something.

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

While there has been a great deal of condemnation by Wisconsin people of the proposal to construct power dams across the Wolf river in the Menominee Indian reservation, there has been very little concerted effort by these same people to prevent the spoliation. Word from Washington indicates that the Insull interests are pressing their demands upon the federal power commission for permission to build the dams and unless Wisconsin people bestir themselves at once the permission will be granted and the scenic beauty of the reservation will be destroyed forever.

Thus far a more or less lone fight against the power interests has been carried on by Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton and Congressman John C. Schafer of Milwaukee. Congressman Schneider has introduced a bill providing for the future purchase of the property as a national park and providing for a survey of the reservation by the department of the interior.

Either this proposal or some other plan to save the scenic beauty of the reservation should receive the unanimous indorsement of Wisconsin beauty lovers. The arguments advanced by the Insull interests apparently have made such an impression in Washington that nothing less than an alternate plan for utilizing the reservation will be effective. Mere protests against issuing the power dam permits will do little good. Wisconsin conservationists must unite on some plan not only to save the beauties of the Wolf river from the power interests but also to make them available in a greater degree to the people of the country.

But unless action of this nature is taken soon it will be too late. The power interests are not permitting grass to grow under their feet and they are rapidly outdistancing the conservationists. If anything is to be done to save the reservation for the people it must be done at once and it must be done systematically.

MRS. McCORMICK WINS

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, and widow of the late Senator McMillan McCormick, won the Republican nomination for United States senator in Illinois over Senator Charles S. Deneen. Six years ago Deneen unseated her husband. Mrs. McCormick is the first woman nominated for the United States senate by a major party in a real contest. If she wins in November she will be the first woman elected to the United States senate. The Democratic nominee who will oppose Mrs. McCormick is the famous bewhiskered sartorial model, J. Hamilton Lewis, Esquire. Both Mrs. McCormick and Deneen were classed as drys but they divided on the world court, Deneen favoring American participation and Mrs. McCormick opposing it.

We have an idea that the principal explanation of Mrs. McCormick's election is that she is a woman and put up a good fight. All things being equal in a contest between a man and a woman where the latter proves herself to be a fair and forceful fighter, public sympathy might easily incline to the weaker sex. Moreover, she had back of her powerful political forces. She was a striking and colorful novelty; Deneen an old story. Mrs. McCormick is a tireless campaigner and makes a fair address. It would be foolish to say that she was elected because of her opposition to the world court, although the Chicago Tribune, a McCormick paper, will doubtless make this claim. There probably is not a state in the Union where this one issue would decide the election of a United States senator. The American people have too little interest and too little understanding of foreign affairs to let a question of this kind influence their vote. Moreover, Mrs. McCormick's arguments against the court were exceedingly fantastic and juvenile.

The contest between Mrs. McCormick and Lewis will be one of the most interesting in next fall's elections, but the chances are she will win because Illinois is a heavily Republican state and Mr. Lewis' wetness will not likely get him very far.

OPPORTUNITY STILL KNOCKS

Do not let any pessimist tell you that the age of opportunity has passed and that there is nothing left for personal enterprise and individual achievement under the present regime of big business. Back in 1916—the same year that Woodrow Wilson was elected for his second term—O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland's famous brothers, turned from the real estate business to railroading. Raking all the cash they could command and stretching their credit to the limit, they bought the then broken-down Nickel Plate railroad. There may have been a worse railroad in the country, but it is doubtful.

Today these same brothers can board a train at Bay View, in the northern part of the Michigan peninsula, and ride to Brownsville, Tex., on the Mexican border, without once leaving railroads they either own or control. They can also board a train at New York and ride to Salt Lake City, Utah, over similar lines—and continue on from there to San Francisco over a road that is very friendly to their interests. In 14 years they have an 18,000-mile, $2,000,000,000 network of rail lines that eclipse the mileage of systems associated with such well known names in American railway history as Hill, Harriman, Vanderbilt and Gould.

The story of these remarkable brothers—one now 49 and the other 52—has been told many times, but it grows so rapidly that it must be re-told at frequent intervals to keep it up to date. Their latest achievement has been the acquisition of control of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, rounding out a railroad empire which is the largest dominated by private interests. There are only two railroad systems in the world that are longer than the Van Sweringens' 18,000-mile network. One is the Canadian National, with about 20,000 miles, and the other the German State Railways, about 30,000 miles.

Here are some mileage comparisons with American railways: Pennsylvania, 10,466 miles; New York Central, 6,911 miles; Baltimore & Ohio, 5,639 miles; Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, 12,383 miles; Union Pacific, 9,857 miles; Southern Pacific, 13,599 miles; Great Northern, 8,409 miles; Northern Pacific, 6,771 miles. The mileages of the various railroads now controlled by the Van Sweringens are: Chesapeake & Ohio, 2,735; Pere Marquette, 2,244; Erie, 2,316; Nickel Plate, 1,690; Wheeling & Lake Erie, 511; Missouri Pacific, 7,461; Chicago & Eastern Illinois 945.

The familiar story that the Van Sweringen brothers began life as newsboys is not true, but their start in the business world was far from auspicious. Both are self-made. Their entrance into the railroad field resulted from a desire to obtain a street car line from Cleveland to a suburban real estate section that they were developing. Discussions about tracking rights on the Nickel Plate caused the young real estate dealers to enter the field of transportation. They revisited the decaying Nickel Plate and began a series of mergers, the end of which apparently is not yet.

Today they have their offices high up in the lofty tower of Cleveland's new terminal station which they built and which, with connecting developments, is said to have cost more than the Panama canal. No, do not let anyone tell you the day of individual opportunity has passed. Witness the Brothers Van Sweringen of Cleveland. And it is here just as much today as it was in 1916.

Somebody Should Get Shot for This

Press wires carried the story a few days ago about the rescue made on Lake Mendota of a boy and girl who had upset in a canoe. As a matter of fact, the whole affair was a hoax, perpetrated by some practical jokers who were playing tricks on a Madison newspaper. The boy and girl in question had never seen each other and had not been near a canoe.

It happened in Goldie's the other day when a lad from college was telling about a job he had lined up for the coming summer. Said job consisted of marking stock reports on a blackboard in a Chicago brokerage house. Goldie, however, didn't think much of a job like that for a college man.

"But," protested the lad, "I won't have to mark a blackboard all my life!"

"That's right," said Goldie soothingly, "if you're a good boy they'll let you rub it off sometime."

FIRST PATENT ACT

On April 10, 1790, Congress passed the first act providing for the granting of patents.

This action was taken primarily to encourage useful discoveries and inventions in the arts and industries by securing to discoverers and inventors the exclusive benefits of the same.

The year 1836 really marks the beginning of a new era in the patent system of the United States. In that year all previous statutes were repealed and a comprehensive act passed which brought the system substantially into its present condition. Among other things, it created a patent office to be attached to the Department of State, at the head of which was to be a commissioner of patents. It provided also for a board to hear appeals from the decisions of the commissioner against the patentability of an invention.

The thing for which a patent is asked must have three general characteristics: it must be an invention; it must be new; and it must be useful.

THE SCANDAL OF TONSILLECTOMY. 6. SAFE DISPOSAL OF BAD TONSILS.

In several recent talks about tonsils here I have cited the report of Dr. Albert S. Welsh on the results of a pathologic study of 1,000 tonsils which he examined after their removal in a dispensary in a large city in the middle west. That report was published back in 1927. I waited over two years to make any comment on the matter here. In the interim I have sought the views of many representative physicians and a distinct reactionary feeling is unquestionably growing in the medical mind, towards the removal of tonsils and adenoids. I want readers who may have confidence in my teachings to understand that I am striving earnestly to present here, not just my personal notion—I always try to make the fact clear when I do give my own opinion about anything—but the present consensus of opinion of the best physicians. I may say that the views expressed in confidence by some excellent physicians have astonished me; especially so the candid declaration of one man of recognized ability, that he believes he sees as much trouble, both in the throat and in the general system, in patients after they have had the tonsils removed by the best nose and throat specialists as these patients have had before the operation. Several other good physicians who heard this comment seemed inclined to agree with it.

Altogether I think it is fair to say that the chapter of an era of wholesale tonsil and adenoid removal has not been a proud one in the history of medicine. Indeed I should not dwell on it here, but for the fact that some of the profession seem disposed to continue it. Have you a little tin doctor in your community? A social service worker, nurse, maybe a teacher, who rounds up the children of the poor at the unsolicited, takes them to the clinic or dispensary and has their tonsils and adenoids (if any) removed? That is the kind of criminal malpractice that thrives where the general public is low in intelligence and the medical profession is correspondingly weak, and that sweet soul, Lady Bountiful, wearing a charming uniform and perhaps a pretty Red Cross symbol, takes charge of public health and what used to be private practice.

I have described in foregoing articles the modern method of obliterating infected or enlarged tonsils by diathermy (electro-desiccation, electro-coagulation). Only the better physicians in the community are prepared to give patients this boon. Even after the very costly apparatus has been installed the doctor must devote much study to the difficult technique. Finally, it is comparatively tedious work for the doctor and demands skill and gentleness and patience, unlike the crude gross removal of tonsils. Any doctor can remove the tonsils and adenoids in a few minutes at operation; this modern way requires a dozen or more visits of several days. But the modern way is SAFE, virtually painless, and when properly done leaves the throat clean and as nearly normal as the best of operations can. As for foci of infection in the tonsils, the new way obliterates and destroys them more certainly than even surgery can—AND more safely.

NELL HAS A SNAP.
For about a year the bones in my knees have been snapping when I walk. I can feel the sharp snap and hear it, but it doesn't pain at all. What can I do for it? (Nell) Answer. — Such loud snapping is usually due to a tendon slipping suddenly back into its groove. Cracking sound (and sensations) are more commonly due to roughening or thickening of synovial lining of joints or tendon sheaths. I suggest you try wearing a sturdy applied knee cap or adhesive plaster on the sides and front but not the back of the knees. This need not cover the patella. Apply it in inch wide strips overlapping a bit, and in a pattern as the you were grasping the knee with both hands to support it. Once a week remove the plaster (using a bit of gasoline) and apply a new dressing. Keep it up for two or three months.

BUNION IS NOT A GROWTH.
Can you give me a remedy to stop the growth of a bunion that has just started on a middle aged person? (Mrs. H. K.)
Answer. Bunion is not a growth, but a deformity, a partial dislocation of the great toe joint with thickening of the head of the nearer bone of the joint and, sooner or later, an inflamed or infected bursa pad over the joint or under it if you please. The sole cause of bunion is freak footwear, especially shoes with out-flaring points. If one could discard the vicious shoes and go barefoot or wear only something akin to moccasins or at least a naturally constructed shoe, the condition may be relieved and a normal foot restored. If the joint is not already disorganized. Plenty of the shoe manufacturers now furnish a shoe that conforms fairly well to the natural shape of the feet. Why have bunions? AN APPLE A DAY WOULD NOT KEEP ME AWAY.

Several times you have said that apples between meals are as nourishing as at any other time, but you have not said whether apples are fattening. I want to know because I like apples, but I don't want to get fat. (J. J.)
Answer. Well, I'll tell you, Blanche, you'd have to eat an awful lot of apples to keep a doctor if he has an eye like mine. Apples are less fattening than oranges and only slightly more so than lemons. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynymites
By Hal Cochran

THE doves still fluttered 'round about and Clowdy shouted, "Hey! Look out! Supposin' they should peck us. That would be no fun, I'll bet." The Travel Man then said, "Well, say, there is a store not far away. They have some grain these birds will like. That's what I'll go and get."

He left the Tynymites to their fun and on his way began to run. "Please hurry back," one Tyny cried. "We'll all be waiting here. And bring some grain. That will be great. Come back before it gets too late. I know that what we plan to do will bring these doves real cheer."

It wasn't long till he returned and then the Tynymites learned the way to feed a flock of doves. They thought it was real sport. Each one would hold grain in his hand and then a dove would come and stand upon his thumb and eat it fast. There were doves of every sort.

They soon were on their way again because they all ran out of grain. The Travel Man said, "We will take a street car. Follow me! I know a place that you'll think fine and it's right near the street car line." They hopped aboard a car, all feeling cheerful as could be.

They rode until the Travel Man said, "Come, get off!" And off they ran. Not far away they came upon a building. My, 'twas sweet. "The Palace of Versailles is this! And it's a sight you shouldn't miss," explained the friendly Travel Man. "Now, look it over well!"

"Oh, I have read of this in books," said Copsy. "My, how fine it looks! Let's walk around the place and see all that there is to see." So here and there they gaily went and 'bout a half an hour was spent in looking. All the bunch were just as thrilled as they could be.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York. — Manhattan notes:
Theatrical first night. The lobby a forest of high hats after the show. And not a single eccentric among them.

Seldom in New York's history has conventionality been so uniform. Young couples imitate the smart, well-mannered types pictured in Peter and the cartoonists. The oldsters are sedately unnoticeable.

No Jim Fiskes, swashbuckling about town; no Harry Lehrs, giving monkey parties; no Diamond Jim Bradys with rows of sparkling buttons on their vests.

George Mayer, the most faithful first nighter, who has missed few openings of consequence in 20 years and who now is vacationing in Honolulu, is an unobtrusive, retired corset manufacturer.

It is almost impossible to pick out a Broadway character any more unless you know him.

RECALLING THE OLD DAYS
Chet Shafer, founder of the Guild of Former Pipe Organ Pumpers, originated a funny idea that grew into an actual organization.

Some 200 fellow pumpers got together for the guild's third annual banquet and magic lantern show and paid $10 each for the privilege.

Most of them were middle-aged, for hand-pumped organs began to pass out a generation ago with tandem bicycles and other premotor contraptions.

Each member wore a white apron, Eton collar and big bow tie, while he sang "Touch Not the Cup" or listened to Samuel Taylor Moore, author and vox humana, propose a revival of pen wipers and umlauts, or Fellow Pumper Tip Elias suggest the purchase of a guild ferris wheel.

ENRICHING LEISURE
A few nights later 300 or more men and women met at a hotel ballroom to eat honey, drink grape juice, talk and dance.

They were charter members of Lindyanna, Inc., whose aim is the enrichment of leisure.

It seems a woman (identity withheld) had a dream of the marriage of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Morrow making the world "peace-conscious." She enthused others and the idea crystallized in Lindyanna.

They sought some other expression of the name and found that "yanna" is a sanskrit word meaning "the way." Then they remembered a Swedish singer named Jennie Lind. So Lindyanna now signifies "the harmonious way."

Beatrice B. Beecher, grand-daughter of Henry Ward Beecher, is president and Jessie McCutcheon Raleigh, sister of the late George Barr McCutcheon, is another Lindyanna. Her statuette, "Life," is Lindyanna's symbol.

It is not a lonely hearts affair, the founders say, although the invitations promised that "host and hostesses will dance, talk, laugh with you."

The first program included "American mountain songs to the zither," poetry reading, character analysis, a talk on good books by Miss Beecher, and a display of oriental parchments.

Thus everybody sought to learn "the secret of togetherness," which is the principal purpose.

CHIEF WARNS PUBLIC ABOUT GRASS FIRES

Points Out That Person Who Starts Blaze Is Liable for Damage

Appleton residents today were warned by Fire Chief George P. McGillan to start no rubbish or grass fires until after a good rain has fallen. Unless this request is followed the fire chief said, serious fire loss might result.

Already the department has answered numerous calls to put out threatening grass fires and in at least one instance a home was threatened as a result.

"People probably do not realize that under the law the person who starts a grass fire is responsible for any damage to the property of other people if the fire gets beyond control and causes a loss," the chief said.

"In most cases, the grass fires we had were caused by careless children. But part of them were caused by adults who allowed clean-up fires to get beyond their control. With grass as dry as it is now, fire spreads almost as fast as a man can run. If this present dry spell continues and there is no end to the present carelessness, we will have a disastrous fire caused by grass or rubbish fire."

VALLEY LIBRARIANS TO GATHER AT GREEN BAY

No librarians from Appleton public library will attend the meeting of the Fox River Valley Library association at Green Bay, April 23, and as yet no librarians from the college library have made plans to attend. The convention will be attended by representatives from 25 libraries throughout the valley, from as far south as Waupun and Fond du Lac and as far north as Marinette and Sturgeon Bay.

The meeting will open at 11:30 in the morning. A luncheon at the Northland hotel at noon will be followed by an address by Miss Mary K. Reilly, of the University of Wisconsin library school, who will speak on The Permanent Gains in Fiction during the Past 10 Years.

After returning to the library, the librarians will hear a talk by Earl Pisk, in which the first editions in book collecting will be discussed. W. L. Evans will speak on the rare books in the collection given the Green Bay library by the Rev. Witold Chwalibog, and this discussion will be followed by a general discussion of library problems throughout the association.

Years ago the Fox river valley association was a flourishing society, which grew so large that it vied with the Wisconsin Library association in activities. It was eventually found necessary to discontinue meetings of the organization but six years ago it was revived by a group of Fox River Valley librarians in a more informal organization than before, and present members of the association are endeavoring to maintain that character.

HOME MERCHANTS COMMITTEES MEET

The publicity, membership and executive committees of the Appleton Home Merchants association will meet Thursday night at Hotel Northern. The membership committee will report on its drive of the last two weeks. The publicity committee will report on progress of the contest it is sponsoring. Plans also will be made for Home Merchants day in Appleton in May when the prizes, awarded in the contest, will be distributed.

FEDERAL LOCKS OPENED 409 TIMES DURING MARCH

The government locks between De Pere and Menasha were opened 409 times since the opening of navigation on March 20, and boats passing through them carried 4,784 tons of freight and 52 passengers, according to a report of A. F. Everett, government engineer.

Navigation between Menasha and Portage, on the upper Fox river opened on April 1 and thus far no navigation has been reported, according to Mr. Everett. Most of the freight passing through the locks on the lower Fox river was shipped to Kimberly, Kaukauna and Appleton, he said.

"KING OF BANAT" TO WORK TO RESTORE PEACE IN VILLAGE

Banat, Mich.—(AP)—The man who was "king" of Banat, who founded and ruled over this little Hungarian village in Michigan's upper peninsula for nearly a score of years, is coming back to give his former subjects a talking to.

Banat has strayed from the narrow path in which it was started by John Roth, who led a little gipsy band from Banat, Hungary, on the banks of the blue Danube, to this site on the Menominee river in 1903. Factional strife has arisen, a building has been burned, blood has been shed in street fights between merchants of the village. Evil days have fallen upon Banat since its king left the village to live in Milwaukee. So John Roth, who ran the general store, the postoffice and was village notary—the "king of Banat"—is coming back to straighten out affairs.

"Banat always was peaceful," Roth says. "Now look at it. On the front pages of the newspaper is with a village feud and an incendiary fire. And the people don't care. They fight and make threats because there is no one to advise them. I'm going to give them a talking to."

fighting committees of congress which, by the way, will shortly look into the expenditures in all senatorial campaigns.

The practical side of Mrs. McCormick's campaign, however, was in no way better illustrated than on the world court issue. She has been, like her husband, opposed to the league of nations and what she deems its creature; namely, the world court.

She knew just as well as anybody else that the world court protocol probably would be ratified by the senate and that it wasn't likely to become a national issue.

Yet in Illinois it was important for her to espouse the anti-world court side. For one thing, the Hearst newspapers supported her because they are against the world court. And the Bill Thompson political machine was a political strategist, therefore, Mrs. McCormick saw the practicalities of the situation and emphasized them.

This does not mean that she has anything but opposition in her soul toward the world court idea but she saw its possibilities as an issue and important. If she accepted organization support, it was, she said, because she welcomed all citizens and not because she accepted their philosophy of government.

HAS OWN CONVICTIONS

Mrs. McCormick is a courageous leader, incorruptible and aggressive. She yields as do male politicians to the necessities of organization politics but she probably never will allow herself to be swayed on any vital issue by any consideration except

OFFER REWARD FOR PAROLE VIOLATOR

A reward of $25 has been offered for information which will lead to the apprehension of Charles Harris, 43, colored, wanted for violating a parole from state prison at Waupun. Harris was sent to Waupun for robbery from Kenosha-co and he violated his parole on March 15. Harris, a gambler, weighs about 164 pounds and is five feet, six inches tall.

that which she believes is morally right.

There are people in Illinois who know that Ruth McCormick is as thorough a student of business and economic questions affecting the state if Illinois as any man. She hasn't tied herself to the welfare idea to the exclusion of all other issues, as women in politics sometimes do. She is a business woman in herself and the way she managed her own organization in the last two years and won her fight is a tribute to her executive ability.

All Washington knows Mrs. McCormick as one who wants no advantage on account of her sex. She is popular in the official set. She fought Mr. Hoover's nomination at Kansas City while her opponent, Senator Deneen, carried the Hoover banner high. But the White House kept neutral and will endorse her candidacy.

Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, a picturesque figure, who is the last word in deference and politeness to the opposite sex, is the Democratic nominee. He is on the wet side of prohibition, while Mrs. McCormick is a dry. Mr. Lewis is a big vote-getter. Mrs. McCormick would seem at this long distance to be a probable victor, but between now and November she will have to work as hard as she did in the primary campaign to gain the final prize.

Sincerity

ANY public institution, to merit its position as such, must possess a high degree of sincerity. This quality is more than an attitude, it reflects outwardly the strength, reliability and foundation of the institution.

MOST particularly is this true in the instance of a bank. Here is a public institution which touches close to home, here the funds of many families — often their only safeguard for comfortable living — are deposited. Here is where sincerity, in the truest sense of the word, counts for most.

SUCH an institution is this one. Its sincerity in all dealings warrants your confidence and your business.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE stopped in her path quickly as she heard Harry's voice and saw him coming towards her. She must not let him know the ring was in the grass! That thought stood uppermost in her mind, and even while she glanced down, he saw it at her feet. He was almost to her, coming in quick, sure strides, but she picked it up and was standing straight and slim and lovely in the moonlight when he reached her.

Sue heard his quick intake of breath and knew the adoration that was in his eyes without looking.

His warm, clinging hands had taken possession of her small cold ones, and he was half-carrying her towards the porch. "Sue, honey, what happened?" he asked.

He put her in the swing and drew the blanket around her.

"Nothing," she answered, fighting down a desire to cry. The rough towel of his coat felt so comfortable, so masculine, so comfortable, so masculine, so protective, and there was the pungent odor of a pipe around her that she liked.

"I couldn't sleep. I guess my nerves are queer after being shut up. Silly of me, isn't it? So I came down on the porch and then I just walked into the yard."

"I came back tonight, as soon as I finished the conference," Harry was saying. "When I got wind of that tomfoolery in the paper, I could have choked someone. By the way, did you get your ring back?"

Sue was glad that the fated stone was safe on her finger and she turned her hand in his so he could see it.

But after he had gone and she was upstairs again, curled up by the dreaming Cornue, sleep wouldn't come. She was pale and there were violet circles under her eyes when she went downstairs for breakfast.

"The telephone rang sharply and she answered. It was Jack."

"Sue? Good news for you? Did you know that one of your hosts of last week has been wanted on another charge and there's been a $500 reward posted for his capture which you'll get? They just identified him."

"Honestly? Oh, that's great! When do I get it?" she asked and a little worry in her mind disappeared. She had wondered how she could buy enough clothes to compete with Sarah and Barbara and all the rest, if she had to move in Harry's set. And she had to have a few of them, for her winter wardrobe was sadly bare. The new silhouettes styles had made any left-overs impossible. She must mingle with Harry's friends. "They people shall be my people." They were Jack's, too, for that matter.

And $500 would do so many other things. The color came back to her cheeks as he dialed Sarah's number and asked her if she would help her choose some clothes, and it stayed there until she came out laden with packages, to prepare for her interview at the prosecutor's office.

For no reason at all she wondered what Sybil was doing. She found out an hour later.

NEXT: Sue meets Sybil at the Thornton, Curtis, Thornton office.

SINGS ITS FINAL CONCERT TONIGHT

Lawrence College Organization Will Appear in Chapel

Singing the concluding concert of their thirty-fifth annual tour, the Lawrence Men's Glee club will appear before an Appleton audience tonight at the Memorial chapel. The club, which is under the direction of Carl J. Waterman, has returned recently from a tour of 15 cities of Wisconsin and Minnesota, where they have given successful concerts. This year the Glee club includes 43 members, made up of students from Lawrence college and the Conservatory.

The program which the Glee club will sing Thursday is an unusually fine one. It includes four groups by the ensemble and groups by three soloists: Wenzel Albrecht, Kewau-nee, violinist; David Bruce Scoular, Oshkosh, tenor; and Russell Dan-burg, Miller, S. D., pianist and accompanist.

The Glee club will open the program with "The Alma Mater" by Dressler, "Hymn Before Action" by Davies, "O Peaceful Night," German and "Rising" by Clarke. Albrecht will play the Allegro movement of the "Symphonie Espagnole" for violin, by Lalo. The Glee club will continue with "The Guard Passes," Gretry, "At Parting" by Bartholomew, and "The Sea." Incidental solos in "The Sea" will be sung by Scoular, who will also follow this group with "Slow Horses, Slow" by Bralovitz, "Iris" by Wolf and "I Love Life" by Manazucca. "Walk Together Children" Johnson, "Plantation," Steiner and "Babylon's Wave" by Gounod, will be sung by the club.

Following an intermission, Dan-burg will play the A flat Polonaise of Chopin. Albrecht will play another group, "Larghetto" by Handel, "On Wings of Song" Mendelssohn-Achorn and "Saterelle" by Wienawski-Thibaud. The program will be concluded by the "Songs in the Twilight" group, which will include the Lawrence "Viking Song" by Trezise-Masch; solo by Scoular, "Heldel-berg" by Luders, with chorus by the Glee club, "Kentucky Babe" by Geidel; solo by Pack Houren, and Col-lege Songs.

SPORTS SKIRTS IN PARIS END AT KNEE

Rest of World Still Wearing Them Several Inches Longer

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York—(CPA)—When dresses were short, Paris howled to have them long. Now that dresses are long, Paris howls to have certain of them short. Result: Paris is wearing sports skirts at knee length, the rest of the world is wearing even sports skirts from two to four inches below the knee. You can't win.

London has discovered that even if winter goes, spring can still be far behind. At present, London has cold feet, though spring is officially in force. London is inserting those feet into shallow receptacles of velours or velvet, sometimes quilted, always in gay colors. Cut a hole in one side of a fat sofa pillow, insert your feet in the aperture, and you will get the idea—a good one for unheated London houses and not so bad for American apartments in which the heat is turned off during chilly April.

EXPECT TO OPEN NEW SHOE STORE SOON

The new Schiff Shoe company store, now under construction in the building formerly occupied by the Majestic theatre is expected to be opened for business within the next two or three weeks. It was announced Wednesday. Workmen have completed most of the preliminary work on the front and interior, and it is expected interior decorators and fix-ture installers will get started in the next few days.

With Glee Club

Wenzel Albrecht, a violinist of extraordinary promise, will appear with the Lawrence Glee club in its annual home concert at the Memorial chapel, Thursday evening, April 10. Albrecht already has gained considerable experience in recital appearance and as a student of Percy Fullinwider, professor of violin at the Lawrence conservatory, he has established himself with astonishing speed.

Albrecht is a member of the Lawrence Conservatory Symphony orchestra directed by Professor Fullin-wider and in addition has been booked by Chautauqua and Lyceum courses as a member of trio and ensemble organizations.

Albrecht's violin will make a wide appeal to music lovers.
Tickets are on sale now at Bellings Drug Store.

it while Gladstone and Manistique polled a heavy majority in opposition.

EXTREMES FEATURE STYLES FOR 1930

Women's Sport Skirts Short While Evening Dresses
Are Floor-length

New York—(P)—Shirts and shorts for tennis and floor-lengths evening dresses mark the two extremes of women's fashions for the summer of 1930.

A parade of 140 manikins displayed the styles Tuesday night at the summer fashion show of the garment Retailers of America at the Hotel Astor.

The materials are silk, satin and cotton fabrics, lace and fur. The colors are pastels: caprice tan, a short of beige; caress blue; charm pink; and coquette green.

Skirt lengths are not materially changed from last season, nor is there any change in silhouette. The garments shown were described as "wearable," being a modification of the high waist line and other extremes of design of last autumn.

Pajamas had a conspicuous place in the show, fashioned in plain and printed silks and cottons and of lavender design.

Skirts lengthen progress from hem-lines a little below the knee for street and sport wear to dresses a few inches longer for afternoon, a little longer for dinner gowns and quite long for evening wear.

A four-piece ensemble of green tweed with a beige collar of lapin attracted considerable attention as a traveling costume.

The tennis outfit of shirt and shorts is provided with a separate skirt of matching material.
Transparent velvet in black trimmed in ermine was one of the features of the display of summer evening wraps.

W.C.T.U. Officer Admits Writing Scandal Letters

Spokane, Wash. —(P)—A two-year old mystery cloaking a series of "scandal letters" to officers and others, was believed cleared up here today in a confession of Miss Lele Jourdan, 37, secretary of the Spokane Women's Christian Temperance union.

Miss Jourdan's statement, deputy Prosecutor Del Cary Smith announced said she had written numerous letters telling officers of fictitious gambling and liquor law violations.
She admitted, officers said, that a federal grand jury indictment of James Rainey and his son, Arthur, was the result of letters she had written to herself, containing obscene references and proposals. She testified before the jury to obtain the indictments. The charges against the Raineys were not pressed.

Postal authorities, however, refused to believe the two men were gui-ty, and their investigations brought about Miss Jourdan's arrest and a subsequent signed statement. She said she started the letters first as a joke, and then, as the situation became more complicated, did not stop writing because "there did not seem to be a stopping place."

Many of the letters she said she had written to herself were reported to Sheriff Brower "just simply because I liked Mr. Brower, and like to hear him and talk to him."

She implicated the elder Rainey, she said, because Mrs. Rainey told her that the man had refused to permit her to sell vanilla extract to raise funds for a ladies aid society.

Miss Jourdan was held for the United States commissioner on a $500 bond to await the next session of the federal grand jury. Federal officers would not say what charge would be pressed.

EXPECT MORE THAN 1,000 PERSONS ON WASHINGTON TRIP

Meeting Says Advance Reg- istration Indicates Record Crowd

That there will be more than 1,000 graduates, teachers and parents on the special Outagamie-co excursion to Washington, D. C., next June is indicated by advance registrations made with A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

Already there are 216 graduates and 318 parents and teachers who have made reservations. In addition there are 40 members of the Appleton high school band, 53 graduates of the rural normal school at Kaukauna, and about 20 or 30 nurses or invited guests. This brings the total advance registration to over 600 and there are still 53 more school districts to be heard from.

Mr. Meating said this immense crowd will make it necessary to have two trains to carry the delegates to Washington next June 11.

Following is a list of the towns and villages with the number of registrations from each: Black Creek, 19; Bovina, 12; Buchanan, 18; Centor, 15; Dale, 37; Deer Creek, 13; Elington, 45; Freedom, 31; Grand Chute, 19; Greenville, 25; Hortonville, 3; Kaukauna, 4; Liberty, 1; Main, 15; Maple Creek, 9; Osborn, 23; Oneida, 11; Seymour, 35; Vandenberg, 10; parochial schools, 50; state graded schools in villages and districts, 169.

TRANSFER OFFICER TO APPLETON GUARD POST

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Capt. Anthony P. Lagorio, infantry, is to be transferred to Appleton, Wis., from the Hawaiian department upon the completion of his present tour of foreign service, according to orders issued by the War department. At his new station, Captain Lagorio will be detailed as an infantry instructor in the Wisconsin National Guard.

Another List Of Prize Winners To Be Published In Idea Contest Tomorrow

Just one more day until another group of prize winners in the Appleton Post-Crescent's idea contest are named. The seventh prize list to be published since the contest started will contain many new names as well as several names of students who already have won prizes.

The experience of these "repeat" winners has been that it does pay, indeed, to keep on trying.

Think of it! Two little girls have added $1.50 to their commencement trip funds by winning prizes. And these same little girls are scheduled to win more prizes. Several boys and girls have won two prizes and at least 60 others received fifty-cent pieces each.

The contest is such an easy one that not a single rural or parochial school graduate ought to miss the opportunity to at least try to win a prize. While there have been more than 1,000 letters received in the contest since it started and there are somewhat over 400 graduates in the county, this doesn't mean that every graduate has tried to win a prize.

Many of the 1,000 letters have come from the same boys and girls, who having either won a prize are trying to win another—or not having won one are still trying.

DON'T DELAY LONGER

Don't delay a minute, you graduates who have not yet tried to win one of the half dollars the Post-Crescent is giving away. Sit right down now and write a letter or postcard to the contest editor. Tell him how you are going to earn the $25 to pay your fare on the trip to Washington. There is no reason why you shouldn't get one of the prizes. Surely you can think of ideas just as clever, original and practical as some of those which you have seen win prizes.

Take an example from Miss Alice Wolf of the Little Chicago school near Kaukauna, or Miss Carmen Eisch of the Cherry Hill school, or Wayne Kennedy of the Countryside school, or Dorothy Olsen of the Countryside school.

These contestants have been so persistent in submitting ideas that their names have become familiar to the contest editor. They are to be commended for their many fine ideas and it is just too bad that they cannot receive a half dollar for every suggestion they submit. It is easy to know that these youngsters will have little trouble in earning their $25 for the trip.

Follow the leadership of these students and see if you, too, cannot win a prize or two, or even three.

START RADIO DRIVE TO STOP BUSINESS WASTE

Madison—(P)—A war to eliminate waste in business has been declared over the radio.

The attacking force is the Bureau of Business Information of the extension division, University of Wisconsin, and its offensive is in the form of weekly addresses by business experts in the division.

H. R. English, in charge of the bureau, will open a weekly program Monday, April 14. He will speak on "Eliminating Waste in Manufacturing." The address is at noon and will come through WHA, University of Wisconsin station.

W. J. Schenck, another bureau member, will speak on "Cost Accounting as a Means of Fighting Waste." His address will be broadcast April 21. Other bureau speakers over the radio are to be:

H. R. Deering, April 28, on "The Retailers Battle Against Waste"; A. W. Hallam, May 5, on "Attacking the Wastes in Advertising"; and Mr. English, May 12, on "Checking the Wastes in Sales Management."

Cambridge, England—William Spence, master of Corpus Christi College of Cambridge university, thinks it is a mistake for American schools to experiment with the English house and tutorial system because they do not fit with American ideals and tradition.

BOTH HOUSES PASS BILL BY SCHNEIDER

Measure Proposing Award to Man Awaits Hoover's Signature

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—A private bill introduced by Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton authorizing a cash award for William P. Flood of Washington, D. C., has been passed by both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and now needs only the signature of the President.

The Appleton Congressman's bill provides this payment as a return for beneficial suggestions made by Flood while in the Navy, which resulted in the improvement of naval material and economy in its construction.

Flood claims to have patented and developed several methods of expediting production in the lapping of guns and designing of tanking. His methods were used by the Naval Gun Factory where he was employed as a machinist. He received no extra compensation for his valuable suggestions.

Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, approved the bill. Representative Schneider introduced an identical bill into the Seventieth Congress, which was passed by the House.

The bill which has just passed the Senate, does not specify the amount Flood will receive when the President signs it. The amount of the award will be determined by a special board.

BOND ISSUE IS READY; CLERK TO SEEK BIDS

The $60,000 bond issue, authorized by the county board last November to pay the county's share of the cost of the new bridge to be built across the Fox river on Lave-st, Kaukauna, has been printed and approved, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Mr. Hantschel now awaits instructions from the county board finance committee to advertise for bids on the bonds, which carry 4 1/2 per cent interest. The bonds, according to Mr. Hantschel, will mature at the rate of $2,000 per year until 1944.

We take YOU into... OUR CONFIDENCE

Never before has this organization been in the unique position it is in today. The new year has brought us an increase in business, in good-will, in buying power, and many other achievements have torn away the pages from our old book of policies.

Better ways of serving an increasing number of customers have constantly been worked out. Today, we are justly proud to take you into our confidence and reveal the interesting ways we can better serve you. We want you to know what our new policies really are. . . . How they have been created to help you have the kind of a home you want. . . . the kind of a home you'll enjoy.

We take you, first, into our buyers' office, for here a close study of furniture makes possible the quality we have maintained from our beginning. By close cooperation with furniture manufacturers, our buyer anticipates the modern trends long in advance of actual buying. Too, buying was formerly done at costly random. Now it is guided and concentrated into quality and price ranges that are conveniently adapted to your particular income and desires.

Moreover, we are making an earnest effort to select the highest quality at all times. Every piece that goes through our distribution channels must be QUALITY MARKED and QUALITY CONSIDERED for your protection and satisfaction.

Service, too, plays a new and interesting part. This department is geared to help you as never before. Complaints and adjustments receive prompt attention, and THE CUSTOMER IS ALWAYS RIGHT assures you every courtesy and a square deal at all times.

Another policy — PRICE. We studied it long and hard. We analyzed its abuses, both ways. We recalled how a maze of price variation often sent you home undecided and dissatisfied. NOW we have made it easy for you to buy GOOD furniture in three distinct quality groups. . . . each a price range made to fit one of three definite budgets. One of them is yours.

WABASH-SEABOARD SYSTEM NOW FACES MANY DIFFICULTIES

Plans May not Go Through as Outlined by Commission

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Friction is beginning to make itself more evident in railroad circles of the country. There is still a disposition on the part of the eastern railroads to "go along" with the plans of the interstate commerce commission for the consolidation of eastern lines, but things are no longer "merry as a marriage bell."

This was shown in the action of the Chesapeake & Ohio in withdrawing its plan and in the move of the commission ordering the Delaware & Hudson and the Wabash railroads to show cause within 30 days why their applications to acquire properties not included in the commission's plan should not be dismissed.

The four great carriers of the east are beginning to frown on the proposed Wabash-Seaboard system.

This is true even of the Pennsylvania shareholders, and it will be remembered that commissioner Eastman alluded to the Wabash-Seaboard as a Pennsylvania combination.

The Pennsylvania is pursuing a policy of watchful wisdom despite the fact that it owns or controls some of the carriers included in the proposed Wabash system, or owns and controls units through the Pennroad Corporation, which itself is controlled by shareholders in the Pennsylvania lines.

Unless legislation is enacted which will vest in the commission the power to break up this control of various units, there exists a very serious doubt in transportation circles that the Wabash-Seaboard system will take form as proposed in the plan. When the plan was first announced it was thought by many in close touch with the situation that the Pennsylvania favored five systems in the east and had obtained control of certain carriers with a view to forwarding the five-system plan. Since that time, however, the allocation of the important subsidiary of the Pennsylvania, the Norfolk & Western railway, to the Wabash System has caused a change of viewpoint.

COAL FIELD HOLD

The Norfolk & Western gives the Pennsylvania a hold on the large coal fields of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky and its allocation to another system would cut the Pennsylvania off from the southern coal traffic as well as from the rapidly developing port of Norfolk.

It would seem that the Pennsylvania has no intention of abandoning its southern coal traffic, in view of the vigorous fight which the Norfolk and Western is making over the control of the Virginian against the Chesapeake & Ohio interests.

Under the commission's plan the Virginian is taken away from the Van Sweringen and Pennsylvania in-

EXPECT TO FINISH CENSUS CANVAS HERE IN NEXT TWO WEEKS

Cooperation in Appleton Excellent, Enumerators Report

Decennial census enumerators are having little difficulty in their canvass of Appleton residents and are finding splendid cooperation, according to reports received from federal census headquarters.

In many cities enumerators have been having trouble with people, who refuse to give information because they believe the data is to be made public, it was announced. A number of people here also, have been unwilling to set a valuation figure on their homes, as they believe the information is going to be used to set a new tax rate.

On the average, however, Appleton residents seem to know what the census is all about, according to Frank Jonet, Green Bay supervisor in charge of this congressional district.

Taking of the census has been progressing rapidly since April 1, and it is expected enumerators will be finished in about a week. The local census of distribution is about half finished; the census of manufacturers is nearly completed, and the population tally is moving as rapidly as possible, it is reported.

Eleven canvassers are at work in Appleton, two in each ward except the Fourth ward where one man is doing the work alone, according to Mr. Jonet. One enumerator is at work in each township except Grand Chute where two men are at work.

"The figures taken for the census will not be used for fixing tax rates, and the information on property valuation is not available to any government agency, except the census bureau, and then only for general statistical purposes," Mr. Jonet stated.

Census information is kept as a sealed record for 50 years, during which period it is not available for any purpose except those outlined specifically in the census schedules, it is reported.

In some parts of the valley it is indicated that manufacturers are antagonistic to the manufacturer's census, and have even taken the stand of refusing to give out any information at all on their businesses, it is reported.

Census supervisors will make calls on individuals and concerns which are antagonistic and which refused to give information to enumerators, pointing out that cooperation will be appreciated and promising that none of the information will be used for other statistical purposes.

While the English girls are beautiful, and getting more so, Goldwyn believes they need more experience in repertory companies before they can break into the talkies.

Characteristics demanded of talkie stars is that they must not exceed 5 feet 3 inches; profiles must sweep at certain angles; voices must have pleasant reproduction; and figures must be very dainty.

LAWRENCE CO-EDS PROVE RIGHT TO ENTER FORENSICS

Two Viking Teams Have Exhibited Outstanding Abilities

Lawrence college coeds have definitely proven that forensics is a field into which they may venture with assurance. From a field of 17 young women who appeared at the try-outs held last fall, the coach, Rexford Mitchell, selected a squad that has presented the two sides of the disarrangement questions before university groups and women's clubs of Wisconsin and Illinois.

The affirmative team, composed of Madeline Johnson, Port Edwards, Irma Malzow, Beaver Dam and Lucille Schwartz, Menasha, appeared before the Menasha Kiwanis club on March 17 and the Weyauvega high school the following day opposing the stand of the Carroll college team, Wauslesha, March 24, the same team traveled to St. Paul where they met the affirmative team at the People's church of that city and the following evening met the negative team of Carleton college at Northfield, Minn. Although these debates were non-decision, the coach declared he was well pleased with the arguments presented.

Two members of the team, Madeline Johnson and Irma Malzow will meet a team from Northwestern university at the only home appearance of the debaters in a decision contest at Peabody hall on Wednesday, April 16. Dr. H. M. Wriston, president of the college, will preside and Dr. H. L. Lwbank of the University of Wisconsin school of speech, will cast the decision. This is the only decision debate and the two young women from Northwestern both juniors in the school of speech are expected to furnish a stiff opposition to the Lawrence argument.

The negative squad of the Lawrence debaters which is made up of Eugene Perschbacher, West Bend, Helen Snyder, Escanaba and Maxine Frazer of Appleton, has participated in three non-decision contests. They appeared before the Waukesha women's club in a contest with Carroll college. The following day they met Marquette co-eds speaking before the co-ed literary society of the Milwaukee school. On March 25, Carleton college then affirmative team to meet the girls at New London where they appeared before the joint women's clubs of that city. This team composed of two freshmen and a sophomore did excellent work in every contest, Mitchell said and much is expected from them in the remaining years of their course.

RIPON COLLEGE CHOIR WILL SING AT CHURCH

The Ripon college A Capella choir under the direction of Harold Chamberlain, head of the music department of Ripon college, and director of the Ripon Glee club, will present Stainer's "Cantata" at an evening service on Palm Sunday at the Congregational church.

The Ripon mixed choir, composed mainly of college students, will be augmented for this occasion by soloists from the city of Ripon, Frederick and Carleton Lueck, bass and baritone. The latter is a former soloist with the Ripon Glee club, which has appeared in programs at the Congregational church for the past two or three years. W. A. Hargrave and Mr. Chamberlain, tenors, will sing solo parts of the oratorio.

Enter Forensic Field

These three co-eds, Miss Madeline Johnson, Port Edwards, upper left, Miss Lucille Schwartz, Menasha, upper right, and Miss Irma Malzow, Beaver Dam, compose the women's affirmative debating team at Lawrence college this year. Their success has definitely proved their place in the forensics field, according to Rexford Mitchell, coach.

ADVISE FARMERS TO PLANT FLAX

County Agent and State Worker Says New Crop Will Make Money

The heavy clay soils of Outagamie county are especially adapted to flax raising, according to word received by Gus Sell, county agent, from the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

For several years the farmers in the east central section of the state have received from $30 to $45 per acre for flax. It has been found that this section of Wisconsin produces as high acre yields as any other section in the United States, according to A. H. Wright, a state consultant.

Flax requires no extra labor or special machinery when grown on suitable soil, it pays better in Wisconsin than any other cash grain crop.

Farmers in east central Wisconsin can market their flax in Milwaukee. The linsed oil mill there buys direct from the growers and pays the full market price, less 5 cents a bushel if the flax is in bags. Thus whether farmers produce a few bushels or a carload they can always sell it.

Mr. Sell advises the farmers to consider planting some flax. He suggests that they get in touch with him or with the college of agriculture at Madison to secure further information on the subject.

ATHLETIC DEALERS MEET NEXT MONTH

Wisconsin Retailers Expected to Attend West Virginia Gathering

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Wisconsin dealers in golf, baseball and general athletic goods are expected to meet with similar dealers from other states at a trade practice conference on May 7 at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The conference has received the authorization of the Federal Trade commission.

With the opening of another spring and summer season of increased interest in outdoor sports, a large attendance is expected.

The primary purpose of the conference will be the elimination of unfair methods of competition in the industry. The delegates will discuss tying contracts, misrepresentation in advertising, and commercial bribery. In addition to many other phases of the industries particular problems.

According to the Federal Trade commission, manufacturers of golf balls, golf clubs, baseball, gloves, bats, uniforms, footballs, basketballs, and tennis and boxing equipment, represent an annual sale of $15,000,000.

The majority of such plants are located in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri and Wisconsin, says the commission.

The conference will be held in the Greenbrier hotel at White Sulphur Springs.

Pirates Sell Burleigh Grimes To Boston Braves

JUDGE FUCHS PAYS CASH AND PITCHER FOR SPITBALL STAR

Payment Is Reported to Be Second Largest Ever Made for a Player

BOSTON.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes, right handed ace of the Pirates' pitching staff for two years, today is a member of the Boston Braves. Percy Lee Jones and a "large cash consideration" were given by the Boston club in exchange. Grimes, one of the few remaining spitball pitchers in the big leagues, came to terms with President Emil Fuchs after he had been a Pirate holdout all spring. His demands for a $20,000 salary and a two-year contract were not met by the Pittsburgh club officials.

Fuchs said the payment was the second largest ever given by the Braves for a ball player. Two years ago he declared he gave the New York Giants $100,000 for Rogers Hornsby, whom he later traded to the Chicago Cubs.

Two years ago with the Pirates Grimes won 25 games and lost 14 games and last year won 17 and lost seven. He was traded to the Pirates by the Giants after he had been a holdout in the spring of 1928.

Jones, a left-handed pitcher, won seven and lost 15 games with the Braves last year. He came from the Chicago Cubs in the Hornsby deal.

JONES REPORTS FRIDAY Mobile, Ala.—(AP)—Percy Jones, southpaw pitcher obtained by the Pittsburgh Pirates from the Boston Braves in exchange for Burleigh Grimes, spitball holdout, and a bundle of cash, will report to Manager Jewell Huns at New Orleans Friday night or Saturday morning. Ens announced today he plans to carry three southpaws through the season. Jess Petty and Larry French are the other two.

CUB FANS DISAPPOINTED Chicago.—(AP)—Chicago Cubs baseball fans are disappointed that Pittsburgh didn't trade or sell Burleigh Grimes to the Cubs instead of the Boston Braves, but they are glad the spitballer no longer is with the Pirates.

The Cubs managed to get one decision over Grimes last season while he was working for their closest rivals. The fans figure Burleigh will not be so hard to beat as a Brave hurler, and that he will defeat Pittsburgh as often as he beats the Cubs.

Kimberly.—A pick up team of high school players played a similar team of Appleton boys under the name of the Union Oils at the Kimberly Clubhouse Wednesday evening. The game was fast and close, both teams showing plenty of skill at shooting.

The Kimberly team, after the score had seen sawed back and forth for ten minutes, held a two point lead at the close of the first period. The second period the inspired Appleton team would and when the first half came to a close they led by a safe margin, the score being 23 to 14.

In the third period the Kimberly team did exactly what the Appleton team did the preceding quarter and the third quarter ended with the Kimberly squad again in the lead 28 to 28.

The last period was a battle royal with the local team having a slight edge, and the game ended with the final score giving the Kimberly squad a 38 to 31 win.

Middle West Only Area Troubled By Stalling

BY FRANCIS P. POWERS
Copyright 1930

CHICAGO.—Scientists of the National Basketball Coaches' association, who spent two days conducting a clinic on the sport, found that like lumbago the disease of stalling that attacked the game during the past winter was only a local ailment and could easily be cured with a mustard plaster instead of a surgical operation.

The western conference, Bob Zuppke's anchor of amateur sports, was found to be the greatest sufferer from stalling. Dilatory tactics practically were unheard of in the east; the south reported little of it and the far western representatives declared few if any of the teams in that sector were playing a "sitting bull" type of game.

Perhaps the prevalence of stalling in the middle west is due to the fact that basketball rivalry is a bit more serious there than in other parts of the country. The cage game has become a major sport in the midlands, and the meeting of traditional rivals develops an enthusiasm that is quite in proportion to the big football games of the sector.

Many of the coaches believed that stalling could be stamped out quickly if all teams would agree not to treat into a defensive formation at every opportune moment. It was felt that no great amount of legislation could be recommended to overcome the fungus that had attached itself to the sport although several ideas to curb it were suggested for the consideration of the rules committee.

The coaches' gesture against stalling is a demand for a change in section three of rule seven. They would have the rule reworded so that when a player retreats into his back court and refuses to pass within five seconds, official can rule it a held ball. That of course would not entirely eliminate stalling, for a team still could pass in the back court to its heart's content, but it may help.

The master minds of the game seemed unwilling to take the responsibility of asking for a change in the center jump, although there were many who privately expressed a dislike for it. So if a coach is fortunate enough to have one of Mrs. Murphy's skyscraper boys on his team there's nothing the other fellow can do about it.

A partial handicap was put on the taller centers by the recommendation that will limit a jumper to one tap at the ball. But that is a small lever, for fellows like Steteli, Murphy of Purdue and Foster of Wisconsin needed just one tap and no more.

Coaches reported basketball to be in a flourishing condition in all parts of the country and growing in popularity, which may partially explain their hesitancy in recommending any radical changes in the sport.

George Keogan, of Notre Dame suggested that one official be used to call all fouls, while the other tossed the ball for center jumps and held balls, as is done in the professional game, while Harold Olsen of Ohio suggested that three officials be used instead of two. Something may be done about the officials for there was much kicking done about the quality of officiating in many sections, during the past season, and three pairs of eyes should be better than two.

HUSKIES AND BEARS IN ANNUAL ROWING DUEL TOMORROW

Coaches Confident as Perfect Weather Is Forecast for Big Event

SEATTLE, WASH.—(AP)—The annual battle for Pacific coast rowing supremacy will be waged on Lake Washington here tomorrow between California and Washington with bitterly contested races variety, junior-varsity and freshman.

Perfect rowing weather—sunshine and gentle breezes—was forecast by the weather bureau.

With the rival crews believed fairly evenly matched, old time Lake Washington records may be shattered in the event of smooth water. The varsity time of 15 minutes 58 seconds for three miles was established in 1916 by a Washington shell. The junior varsity record is 16 minutes, 26 2-3 seconds and the freshman mark, 10 minutes, 44 2-5 seconds for the two mile event. Both were made by Washington crews in 1929.

Both crew camps were confident.

Ky Dibrigh, California head coach said "both the varsity and junior varsity races will be tough. I cannot predict the results. Our varsity boat is about as fast as our winning shell of 1929 and our junior varsity much better than last year. We will be able to handle ourselves just as well as Washington in case of rough water."

Alvin Ulbricksen, Washington head coach asserted that "All the races will be close and hard fought. They are too even to figure until they get on the water. Strategy may be the deciding factor in one or all of them. I have confidence in my varsity and junior varsity to deliver their best."

Washington will have weight and height advantage in the varsity and junior varsity lineups and will have a weight edge in the freshman boat. California's freshmen average a little taller than the husky babes.

FABER GIVES GIANTS 1 HIT IN 7 INNINGS

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—(AP)—Old Red Faber has a long lead in the rest of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff for the night to pitch the opening game of the championship season.

Injured Or Not, Babe Must Stay With Yanks

BY WILL WEDGE
Copyright 1930

MEMPHIS, TENN.—(CFA)—Babe Ruth and his Charley Horse, which he has spoofingly named "Liza Ann," are here and will continue to be here and there, as you might say, with the Yanks during the rest of their way home.

The Ruthian plea to be excused was not heard. The neigh of "Liza Ann," the horse in question on the Yanks, was not heard. Ruth sticks for the duration of the barnstorming, no matter how his old Charley Horse sticks with him.

Mr. Ruth is needed at the gate. Mr. Ruth gets $80,000 a year. Mr. Ruth will remain. He will go through the motion of checking in and checking out at the various other stops along the Yank's right of way.

Probably he will not do such a whale of a lot of playing. He hardly will do any playing today, for that matter. But he will be along with the bunch. And they will feel safer with him along.

If Ruth were sent back from this stop, as he had hoped, the gate might be damaged. And the trade in crushed ice for ice packs might be damaged. After all, the economic balance of the nation has to be maintained. Why throw all Ruth's crushed ice trade for ice packs into

New York when the Tennessee valley towns refrigerating plants are calling for his trade.

In this way a double purpose is served. The fans along the route are calling for Ruth. My gawd, how they call for that guy. Manager Shawley is calling for him, liniment salesmen are calling for him.

It can be reported that Ruth has rolled into Memphis well manured and well barbered and nicely hot towed and with all his suits pressed up. All this spring he has never been afforded such an opportunity to get caught up with his dressing and appearance. His wardrobe is in shape. His laundry has been sent out and returned. He is slicked up to a fare thee well.

Ruth would have liked to have returned to New York direct from Little Rock, or even direct from Memphis, or direct from Nashville, or what have you, but the permission for those concessions could not be obtained.

Cincinnati—Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., knocked out Billy Shaw, Detroit, (1); Jackie Cress, Miami, O., defeated Jackie Stewart, Louisville, Ky., foul (3).

A. L. PREXY THINKS MAJORS WILL HAVE GREATEST SEASON

Expects Junior Loop Will Draw 5,000,000 Spectators This Year

BY PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO—(AP)—Major league baseball, slightly groggy since the world war depleted its ranks and interrupted its annual supply of young talent, has recovered from its shock and will boom louder than ever during the next five years, President Ernest Barnard of the American league predicted today.

"I frankly admit that the class of major league baseball since the world war hasn't been equal to that displayed in the years between 1905 and 1916," President Barnard said, "but we have caught up now and despite the attractions on the golf links and football fields, sports lovers will again realize that baseball is the great national game."

So disastrous was the war and its after affects that major or minor league clubs had difficulty obtaining high class players at any price. The war took young men's minds off the game and those with natural talent forgot about our great game and we lost at least 100 finished players. But that's all past now. We are getting faster and better players, the game has been speeded up to its former class and we are destined to have tighter pennant races from now on. Baseball will come in to its own once more."

President Barnard is optimistic over the prospects of a tight flag race in the American league this year and expects the loop to draw over 5,000,000 spectators for the first time since 1925.

"While Philadelphia looks to be the strongest in the league this year, don't think Connie Mack's boys are going to have a 'walk away,'" he supposed. "The Athletics won last year because all their pitchers went good. But will they all go so good this year?"

"The Yankees look to be a vastly improved team and would extend the Athletics to the limit."

Cleveland, too, looks good. The Indians finished like champions after a bad start in 1929. The odds are they won't have such a poor start and that they will play a more certain smoother brand of baseball this season."

"The White Sox and Detroit Tigers have improved themselves more than any other clubs in the league and that means they will help shave off some games from the big lead every one thinks the Athletics are going to get on the rest of them. St. Louis should be better, too. I don't know much about Washington and Boston but they should do better than a year ago."

Dayton, O.—Rosy Roselace, Cleveland, and Tiger Williams, Chicago drew (10) Jimmy Reed, Lino, Pa. outpointed Johnny Curtin, Dayton O., (10).

Montreal—"Kid" Roy outpointed Sammy Blackett, Toronto (10).

BABE RUTH BACK IN N. Y. YANKEE LINEUP

Chattanooga, Tenn. —(AP)—The Yankees are putting into practice John Heydler's 10-man team plan but not in the way that the National league president had intended. Instead of a batter taking the place of the pitcher at the plate, the Yanks are sending in a runner for the mighty Babe Ruth. The "home run king," his right leg still heavily bandaged with tape, appeared in the New York lineup yesterday, hobbling around in the outfield and facing the Nashville pitcher five times. He walked three times and scored two runs that Bill Karlon, a rookie, carried over the plate.

Trenton, N. J.—The state supreme court has upheld a verdict of $2,000 for Miss Josephine Sica, who has a scar on one calf from an accident on a bus. Says the decision in the present style of dress, including the height of the skirt and the length of the hose, it cannot be said that such a scar is either in an obscure place or not subject to observation and consequent embarrassment."

Few persons would keep their present jobs if they fell heir to $1,000,000, tests by Dr. Harry D. Kitson, Columbia university psychologist, revealed.

DAWSON BARRED AS AMATEUR GOLFER

Job as Sporting Goods Salesman Classes Chicagoan as a Pro

New York — (AP)—Johnny Dawson of Chicago apparently has played his last amateur golf insofar as the United States Golf Association is concerned unless he changes his method of making a living.

Called upon to give Dawson's status after the Chicago golfer had been barred from the North and South tournament at Pinehurst yesterday, H. H. Hamer, chairman of the rules committee, said Dawson was not entitled to play in amateur golf according to rules of the U. S. G. A. Dawson's eligibility was first questioned in the national amateur last year at Pebble Beach after he had decided to change his business from selling bonds to sporting goods. He did not compete for the national championship.

GROVE BETTER THAN EVER, MACK VOUCHES

Philadelphia —(AP)—Robert Moses Grove, the Athletics' left handed speed merchant, is due for a big season this year, in the opinion of Manager Mack. He declares that Lefty's fireball is faster than ever.

"Why, it gives me a sore arm just to see him shoot that fast ball," Mack said as his ace warmed up for a bout with the Phillies in the city series.

"One of the biggest satisfactions of my baseball life is that I bought Grove for the Athletics. We certainly would be up against it if he was with an opposing team. He has all the stuff any pitcher ever had—more speed than any other mound man—and he knows how to use it."

Oakland—Millo Milleth, Omaha, outpointed Al Olsen, Oakland, (6).

San Francisco—Charley Hernandez, San Francisco, outpointed Batthing Bolo, Manila, (8), Babe Marino, San Francisco, outpointed Paddy Waltheier, Chicago (6).

Sports in Brief

BABE RUTH never has to work the sunfield. That means he plays right field at home and left field a good part of the time on the road.

Sammy Mandell will get 87 1/2 percent of the receipts when he defends his title against Al Singer in New York, July 17.

Captain John McEwan had a squad of 60 for his first practice session as head coach at Holy Cross.

The Oklahoma Aggies won the national collegiate association championships three years in succession.

John R. Richards, class of '26, won 11 'W's' in football, track and rowing at the University of Wisconsin.

Dartmouth's baseball team has an unusually strong pitching staff this year.

Both boxing and wrestling have been given major sport ranking at Virginia Military Institute.

Gus Welch, star quarterback with the Carlisle Indians in the days of Jim Thorpe, is assisting Dr. Allen Voshell, Virginia lacrosse coach.

Maryland's spring sports season will have 79 contests on the books, 57 of them at home.

Vance, Herman, Wright and Bensonette, Brooklyn's ace all-arounder, will be in shape for the big fight on April 15.

New York—It's all well and good for Senator Borah to leave for Europe. Mrs. Borah said that as soon as congress adjourned the senator would go to Europe and stay there for a while. The trouble with Mr. Borah is that he works too hard. She added that she has fairly worn him out. He is becoming as photogenic and as popular as a peach. They have become convinced that the senator of the day took place in the grand old days of a senator.

"JOURNEY'S END" IS FINE PICTURE

Story of British Officers in World War Done Excellently

BY JOHNS CO. HEN, JR. Motion Picture Critic of the New York Sun

New York —(AP)—That gallant band of British officers who went down in the world war, "Journey's End" becomes a tale of tragedy and heroism. It is the deepest, most intelligent story of the war I have seen in the cinema. The noble souls of the British officers who were sent to the front to prevent it from becoming a photograph and a movie are as clearly shown. They have become convinced that the action of the day took place in the grand old days of a senator.

It is perhaps unfair to judge its merit on the basis of a single one of the best of the war films. Copyright 1930 by the New York Sun

Journey's End' for the second time—with only a short interim between.

For this reason its emotional values are not devastating, so heart-rending as those of the stage production. How it will seem to one who has never previously seen it, I cannot say, but I am sure that he or she will find it a superior, romantic and a film of contagious souls under the strain of shells and war.

Again "Journey's End" revolves about Captain Stanhope, who three years at the front drank to forget drink to prevent his nerves from electrocuting him in the stress of the first trenches. Here is one of the noble souls of the war, a story of the war, a story of the war, a story of the war.

The action of Journey's End is first rate and all of the acting is good. There are fine performances by David Manners, Ian MacLaren, Anthony Todd and Eric Royle. They do it to make Journey's End one of the best of the war films.

450 BADGER BOYS IN JUNIOR FOREST RANGERS

Madison —(AP)—More than 450 farm youths of Wisconsin have joined the Junior Forest Ranger project in an effort to take a more active part in the state's reforestation program, Wakelin McNeel, assistant state club leader, reports.

He anticipates 900 boys and girls will plant approximately 400,000 seedlings this year. In 1929, 825 were planted 325,000 seedlings.

Junior Forest Ranger work is carried on as a club project. It includes learning to identify common trees and woods, having a proposal plan and studying time and method of planting. Work is started by making a collection of seeds of desirable trees, arranging a nursery bed where the seedlings are grown, and later transplanting them to another plot from which they are set out on the sites selected.

According to Mr. McNeel, related tasks such as collecting and mounting insects which attack trees are also parts of the program.

LEGION VOTES TO BUY TABLES AND CHAIRS FOR HALL

War Veterans Again Will Enter Baseball Team in Legion League

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—New steel tables and chairs for use at the Legion hall will soon be purchased. It was decided at the regular meeting of Legionaires Tuesday evening. The money for the tables and chairs will be raised by the Auxiliary from the production of "Corporal Eagon" an amateur play, will be used for this purpose. A profit of $214 was made on the production.

The Norris-Spencer post this year again will sponsor and manage a junior baseball league team, which will be entered in the state Legion league. Albert Millard has been named as manager of the local organization, with Ray Pratt as his assistant. Both men are anxious to receive applications of candidates as soon as possible. Applicants for positions on the team must be under seventeen years of age and must testify that they will not become seventeen before midnight of Sept. 15. Practice will begin at the end of this week or the first of next. Last year's team played through the county elimination games and won over teams at Green Bay, Stevens Point and Marshfield. The team was defeated at Merrill in a game with Rice Lake, 1-0.

Scoutmaster Kellogg, who was present at the meeting, stated that his troop would be ready soon to give an evening's entertainment. The patrol leaders will take charge of stunts for their groups. At the next meeting of the legion formal initiation rites will be held, followed by a social hour and supper.

FISHERMEN GET BUSY AS WEATHER WARMS UP

New London—Friday was fish day in New London and no keener excitement has been noted since election day last week. The town bristled with fishermen. Men and boys alike played "hookie," and all day long all banks of both rivers were teeming with activity. From the St. Pearl's bridge in both directions one saw many poles. Dealers exhausted their supplies of bamboo poles early and went to Oshkosh and Appleton for more. Claude Lester, dealer in minnows, did a startling business as long as his supply lasted and he had to replenish his supply of shiners repeatedly. The spring migration of pike was at its best and there were few fishermen who did not get from one to half a dozen fish. Nearly every car carried a pole or two and trailers carried boats out of the city to favorite spots.

INJURED WORKMAN STILL IN SERIOUS CONDITION

New London—The condition of Herman Krause, who was severely injured Tuesday morning at the Hatton Lumber yards, still remains critical. He was taken to the Community hospital and Wednesday he had partially regained control of his legs. Paralysis still remains to a considerable extent and his physician states that a vertebrae in his neck was fractured. Mr. Krause fell from a load of logs in the yards and it is thought, struck his head and back against the iron wheel.

16 BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE THEIR NEW UNIFORMS

New London—Sixteen boy scouts of the American Legion troop have received their uniforms. These are the regulation outfits issued through scout headquarters and consist of trousers, stockings and blouses. The boys have not yet received their neckerchiefs or hats and have not appeared in public in uniform. Their first dress occasion will be at the next scout meeting.

NEW LONDON PERSONALS

New London—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Ramm, who spent the winter at the home of their son, Don C. Ramm, at Wisconsin Rapids, have returned to this city. After spending a few days at the John Freeman home they have opened their home on Dorset. Mrs. Don C. Ramm and son have been guests here for a few days. Miss Esther Ziebell has departed for Atlantic City where she will remain for an indefinite period. Mrs. George Polzin and daughter, Arden Ann, are guests of Mrs. Polzin's parents at Marinette. They will remain for two weeks.

MRS. SCHLUCHTER DIES IN TOWN STOCKBRIDGE

Stockbridge—Mrs. Victor Schluchter, 25, who has been ill for several months, died Wednesday at her home in the town of Stockbridge. She was born Sept. 10, 1905, in the town of Stockbridge, and graduated from Stockbridge high school in 1921. She was married in February, 1925. Survivors include the widower; one daughter, Doris May; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker, Stockbridge; two brothers, Joseph and August, Stockbridge; and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Klesner and Mrs. Adam Durben, both of Chilton. The funeral probably will be held Saturday.

FOREST JUNCTION GROUP HEARS TALK ON COOPERATION

Field Manager for Cheese Producers Federation Is Speaker

Forest Junction—Y. G. Swoboda, Plymouth, field manager of the National Cheese Producers' federation, addressed a rural audience at Longfellow school Tuesday evening on the occasion of the monthly meeting of the Longfellow Community club.

Speaking on cooperation, Mr. Swoboda reviewed his subject from its earliest stages among primitive man to the extensive organizations of the present day which are seeking to improve the marketing of farm products. Cooperation, the speaker said, is a much abused term, and its meaning is frequently taken as a signal for a fight rather than concerted effort.

"Two big tasks confront the farmer. One of them is to produce things on the farm; the other is to sell them so as to yield a livable income. Though two and one-half billion dollars worth of farm products are being marketed cooperatively, only about one farmer in every five is participating in the movement."

The fruit growers in California, and in Doorco, Wisconsin, were cited as examples of successful cooperative marketing, and the growth of the National Cheese Producers' federation was presented from its inception as a Sheboygan co enterprise less than 20 years ago to an organization now marketing nearly ten million dollars worth of cheese in 49 states of the union and in two foreign countries.

If the government agencies as the federal farm board and the state department of cooperative marketing are to be of any benefit in the sale of farm products, the farmers must cooperate, the speaker impressed, with each other and with these agencies. A declamatory contest between pupils of the school was held preceding the address of Mr. Swoboda. The pupils of all grades appeared, from which Lawrence Schubling speaking "The Village Blacksmith" was selected by three judges as winner of first place. Gordon Olin speaking "Leode Jacobus Straus" was awarded second place, and Donald Ott with "Warren's Address" third place. The winner of first place will represent the school in the annual township contest to be held at Carson school on the afternoon of April 25.

TELLS WEIRD STORY ABOUT MAN'S MURDER

Sanhuber Describes Murder of Oesterreich — Widow Called by Prosecutor

Los Angeles — (P) — The weird story of homicide, clad in love, mystery and intrigue told by Otto Sanhuber, confessed slayer of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy garment manufacturer, here nearly eight years ago, drew the attention of the Los Angeles grand jury today.

At the same time Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, comely widow of the garment manufacturer and object of Sanhuber's affections, was under summons to appear before District Attorney Burton Pitts for questioning.

Sanhuber yesterday elaborated on his story of the crime by revealing that his "overpowering love for Mrs. Oesterreich," prompted him to kill when he thought the woman was being tortured during a quarrel with her husband.

Sanhuber, now 36 years old, said he met Mrs. Oesterreich when he was 16. At that time he was a sewing machine mechanic repairing machines in the Oesterreich garment factory in Milwaukee. She befriended him, he said, and he responded with a loyal devotion. Shortly thereafter in order to be near the woman, he took up his secret abode in a cubbyhole attic room in the Oesterreich Milwaukee home.

Later, when the wealthy manufacturer and his wife moved to Los Angeles, Sanhuber followed and again took up residence in hidden rooms in the house occupied by the Oesterreichs. He was concealed in an attic compartment on the night of Aug. 22, 1922, when he heard the Oesterreichs return from a party and start violently quarreling, he related.

TRIE TO PROTECT WOMAN

"I heard them quarreling and though 'Dolly' (Mrs. Oesterreich) was being killed," he said. "I grabbed my little gun, rushed from my room and when he faced me, I shot him, then pushed Mrs. Oesterreich into a closet and locked the door, after which I returned to my room. I was stiff with fright."

Police found Mrs. Oesterreich unconscious in a closet of the home. The closet door had been locked from the outside. Investigators concluded robbery had been the motive.

Eleven months after the killing Mrs. Oesterreich was arrested when she attempted to dispose of two pistols. For nearly two years she was held under technical arrest but investigators were unable to solve the mystery of the locked closet door and they finally released her.

The case was reopened this week when Herman Shapiro, former attorney for Mrs. Oesterreich, told police that a man known as Walter M. Klein, alleged half brother of Mrs. Oesterreich, had been found hiding in the garment maker's home and had confessed the slaying. Shapiro said Mrs. Oesterreich had revealed to him the presence of Klein in the home.

Klein's arrest followed. He was identified as Sanhuber and his confession followed.

Shapiro said he had revealed the existence and confession of Sanhuber because he feared bodily harm would come to him by reason of his knowledge of the case. He said he had sought to collect $25,000 from Mrs. Oesterreich as attorney fees.

The attorney also said an alienation of affections suit brought against Mrs. Oesterreich by Mrs. Roy Herrick, wife of a service station operator, had been settled out of court.

Evanston's Dog Catcher Wondering About His Job

Evanston, Ill. — (P) — Gene DeSeri, the doggy dog catcher, is seriously considering returning to Daytona Beach, Fla., where his talents are appreciated.

DeSeri, who knows more dog-catching technique in a minute than most members of his profession learn in a lifetime, was due for reappointment, but something went distinctly haywire. The anticipated appointment was not forthcoming yesterday, and there was nothing to indicate it would be forthcoming today, tomorrow, or the next day.

Several citizens, it was reported, had written the mayor opposing DeSeri's reappointment. The argument seemed to be not so much against DeSeri as against the profession of dog catching. There is a feeling here that Evanston dogs, somehow, are not the type to be caught and put in a pound. Besides, DeSeri is the kind of dog catcher who permits neither the power of great gold or high place to swerve him from his duty. The dog of the wealthiest landholder is no better in the DeSeri's eyes than the creature who snaps at the postman's heels from the humblest cottage.

The annual spring dog catching campaign began today without any official dog catcher in charge. It was a peculiar situation, but DeSeri could only shrug his shoulders. He was available, but his services were not called upon. Instead, the 105 policemen were charged with the job. "Every cop a canine catcher," was the alliterative program.

DeSeri, the best known dog catcher in America, expressed himself as "regretted" he said he might return to Daytona Beach, where they know a good dog catcher when they see one.

Bulls Hold Edge Although Selling Appears When Tape Falls Behind

New York —(AP)— Speculation for the rise again grew feverish in today's curb market. Utilities, in particular, were turned over in huge volume. Considerable profit taking at the best levels of the year. The ticker fell about half an hour behind the market, which made traders nervous and swelled the volume of realizing.

United Light and Power A, Hydro Electric Securities, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Brazilian Traction and American Light and Traction were among issues reaching new high ground for the year. Electric Bond and Share rallied twice, and the United Gas issues, under considerable pressure in recent sessions, turned emphatically upward. United Founders, an important company with large utility holdings, also attracted better support. General Gas traded better, supported, preferred was again strong in reflection of bullish activity in the common stock on the big board. Power Corp. of Canada, a comparatively inactive issue, surged up nearly 10 points.

Deere was still a feature of the industrials, rising a few points to arouse the interest of the market. It was favorably influenced by strength of J. I. Case in the big board.

Among the low priced stocks, Canadian Marconi was a bull favorite rising nearly a point to new high ground for the year. It is understood the company has important plans for radio set manufacturing and is negotiating an agreement with Radio Corp.

Speculation moved into high new territory under the influence of reports of increasing building operations. Among the few rail stocks on this market, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie moved up nearly 10 points in a few odd lot sales, on declaration of the extra dividend, most of which will go to New York Central as majority stockholders. Air stocks continued strong, with Fairchild now closely held issue, rising into new high ground above 9, a gain of over 50 per cent.

Auto stocks were less active, but generally by firm. Coaden, Humble and Gould made fair progress. Among the holding company specialties, Marine Midland was a firm spot, rising above 45 to a new 1930 high. Transamerica, which is also primarily a bank stock holding company, was firm.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

New York.—The Standard Oil Co. of New York has advanced the price of bulk gasoline in tank cars delivered in the port of New York area from 8-10 to 9-8-10 cents a gallon. Other refiners are now asking from 8 1/2 to 9 cents a gallon at nearby terminals.

The New York Stock exchange has promulgated a new ruling permitting investment trusts, the securities of which are listed on the exchange, to pay dividends on their common stocks, although there may be deficits in their balance sheets. A provision is included in the ruling that stockholders are to be notified at the time of the payment of the dividend, that a deficit exists.

The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants in reporting March operations in standard cotton cloth states that sales for the month were 111 per cent of production, and shipments 101.6 per cent of production. Stocks on hand at the end of the month showed a decrease of 1 per cent from the first of the month. The association had increased Nash Motors company of Kenosha Wis., yesterday announced that the regular quarterly dividend of $1.10 a share will be paid May 1 to stockholders of record April 21.

Charles W. Nash, president, declared that the probability of better business ahead fully justified the present disbursement of more than $2,000,000 out of the corporation's surplus.

Directors of the National Tire Company of Anderson, Ind., today voted to reduce the annual dividend rate of the common stock from $3 to $1.50 and declared a quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 cents a share instead of the dividend is payable May 1, to stockholders of record April 15. The company has been paying $3 annually since May 1, 1927.

SENATE CHAIR IS FINALLY WITHIN REACH OF A WOMAN

Ruth Hanna McCormick's Victory Over Senator
Deneen Decisive

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Chicago (CPA).—Women today were a step nearer to that political millennium when one of their sex may sit in the White House, as a result of the sweeping victory of Ruth Hanna McCormick over Senator Charles S. Deneen, in the race for the republican nomination to the U. S. senatorship.

Old barriers of sex and traditions of masculine superiority in the hard game of politics went to smash as the rock-ribbed strongholds of republicanism in Illinois threw their strength to the feminine side. It only remains for this leading woman among politicians of the country, to hurdle the November election when she confronts James Hamilton Lewis one time democratic senator. In the past, nomination on the republican ticket in state contests in Illinois has been tantamount to election.

At one stroke Mrs. McCormick has come within an ace of achieving a life ambition while she settled old scores with an opponent. When two years ago she came romping home with a record-breaking vote of 1,711, 000 and a majority of 400,000 in her race for congressman at large, she began to eye the Deneen job. He had defeated her husband, the late Senator Medill McCormick in the Republican primary of 1924, edging in by a plurality of less than six thousand. Today she had repaid him with a lead of approximately 200,000.
Just one jump and she may sit by her own right in the chair that her father, Mark Hanna, occupied thirty years ago.

There is little attempt in Illinois to minimize the accomplishment of Mrs. McCormick. She ran up against the most astute political organizer that Illinois has known for years.
For nearly forty years he has been a factor in Illinois politics. So powerful was he politically that more than once his name has been mentioned for the presidency. It took more nerve and confidence than any aspiring masculine politician of standing in the state possessed to tackle him.

Mrs. McCormick came forward and won at his own game. She organized the state to perfection, attracted the almost solid feminine vote at the same time that she was winning over the men with the determined type of fight that they like.

DIDN'T LOSE HEAD
In winning, this new leader of Illinois republicans and leader among all of the women politicians of the country, did not lose her head.

When the voting ended, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of Nicholas Longworth and life-long friend of Mrs. McCormick was on hand to be at the side of her companion. "Princess Alice" and Ruth McCormick have spent every important election night together since the days that Theodore Roosevelt was in the White House and Ruth was running messages for her father, Senator Hanna.

But this was something new.
When the votes started to come two to one for McCormick, Mrs. Longworth exclaimed:
"I can't stand it! Ruth, it's coming along great. I can't stand anything so fine."

"You get dressed for dinner," came the reply. "You can stand anything I can and I can stand a whole lot of this—so long as it is history."

There hadn't been such jubilation around a political headquarter in a long time but never once did the nominee lose her poise.

She weighed each report as it came in, assessing its meaning and cataloging that information in her kind for the race that lies ahead in November.

Then shortly after midnight, she issued her statement commenting on the victory.
"I would be less than human if I were not greatly pleased with the result of the primary election," she said. "Any man and particularly, any woman, would be grateful over the convincing majority that has been given me."

She interprets the outcome of the election as the determination of Illinois voters to oppose American adherence to the World court. This issue has been a vote getter in the state ever since 1926 and apparently still pulls.

Once in the senate there would be little more for Mrs. McCormick to aspire to. She said two years ago that no woman would be qualified for a cabinet position for ten years and the presidency still lies a long way off. So if Illinois elects a woman senator as the first state in the union to do so in an open election, she may be content to rule the politics of a great state with merely a hand in national affairs.

WRISTON NAMED TO EDUCATIONAL GROUP

Library Association Committee Will Interest Alumni in Reading Services

Dr. Henry M. Wriston of Lawrence college has been named member of an alumni education committee of the American Library association, it was announced Tuesday. The committee is composed of 12 educational leaders and librarians who will attempt to widen the interest of college alumni beyond the two "f's"—football and finance.

It is the opinion of the group that college alumni may become as interested in reading services as in stadium contests and building drives. Reading lists provided by college libraries have proved popular with alumni groups and may be developed in connection with discussion groups and weakened alumni conferences, according to the educators.

American Woman Go Too Feminine, It Would Seem

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Hollywood, Calif.—(CPA) — Either American women are taking Paris fashions too seriously or not seriously enough. Anyway, something's wrong somewhere. When Paris said "go feminine" a few months ago, American women went so feminine that today they are either "way ahead of the rue de la paix" or "way behind it."

Travis Banton is going to try to set them straight through the films.
Banton, creator of fashions for the paramount studios, is just back from his yearly hop to the gay French cap. And seriously shocked at what American women are wearing. Dresses and coiffures, particularly.

"Why, American women are wearing their skirts longer than the women in Europe!" he exclaimed, round eyed. "Both French and English women trot about in daytime dresses much shorter than the American's.
Their sports frocks are 16 inches from the ground, their street costumes 14 inches. 'It is only in the evening that hems touch the floor or come anywhere near it."

"And American women are wearing their hair longer, too. In Paris, London, Cannes, Monte Carlo, Antibe, Juan les Pins, Mentone, and Nice, the clipped shingle has entirely disappeared but you seldom see long hair.

"On the other hand, European women use more jewelry now with spectator sports costumes than the American women use yet. They wear diamond pins on felt sports hats or jersey jackets. And with even the most casual frocks, a few diamond bracelets and rings, a diamond encrusted watch, or some strands of pearls, are almost compulsory."

Fortunately, the blister of diamonds as well as the glow of rubies reproduces well in color films. And the mike is a glutton for the tinkle of bracelets and the clash of pearls.

"Another thing," Banton warned,
"American women have grown accustomed to tugging their hats down over their ears. This until recently was the correct technique. But the new shallow crowns must be placed on the head thoughtfully."

Come, come, ladies. Register pre-mediation, if you expect to register at all.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains
Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac.
For example, Mrs. Ellen White says:
"For years I suffered from indigestion.
I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today.
Money back if it doesn't help you.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Love of brother prompts Enid Howard to warn the Big Shot of the impending raid on Twisty Morgan's house after seeing a policeman outside. The gang leader and men flee, taking Enid with them, and escape, foiled in their jewel hi-jacking. Grateful to Enid, the Big Shot takes her to his home to recuperate from a slight wound. She calls him Roy Howard and tells him he is her brother, missing overseas. She is perplexed when he tells her he is Norry Kane and introduces his parents. Refusing to believe that she has mistaken his identity, Enid questions him and learns he lost his memory in the war. Enid suspects the Kanes of tricking her brother and determines to learn the truth. She plans also to save Phil Martin, newspaper reporter, whom she loves, from the Big Shot's vengeful threats.

Chapter 14

A NEW MENACE

LUXURIOUSLY furnished with its private bath in a house of crooks.

Enid smiled wanly to herself as she rose from the bed and, in the darkness, hastily began to don her clothes.

The room seemed somehow curiously to epitomize the long afternoon hours of mental turmoil and torment through which she had just passed; it seemed to stand for so much, to point so far, to typify the times—in these modern days out-lavvy and banditry were well and comfortably, even impregnably, perhaps, entrenched in New York!

But in an intimate, personal way this room went far beyond that—it frightened her.

It was the material evidence of Roy's illicit prosperity, because it was something of which he was proud—something that in her heart and soul she knew he would not readily forego.

She had tried to face the problem squarely, to view it from all angles; but she had not been able to see the end. Roy was as certain and assured that he was not Roy as she was certain that he was. A strange and sinister thing that she had done to him, this cruel, irreparable wrong! She did not know whether by medical aid there would be any way of restoring his memory to him—and even if there were, would he submit?

She could not see into the future but there was the immediate present, and her decision in regard to that stood forth clearly defined.

Whatever the ultimate outcome might be she would strive to wean him from his life of crime, and meanwhile to the best of her ability prevent and stand between him and the commission of any projected felonious act.

Her face was very grave and troubled now as she hurried on with her dressing. Yes, she knew well enough what she was attempting—perhaps it was the impossible.

The only way she could hope to prevent a crime was to have pre-knowledge of the fact that it was to be committed; and the only way she could obtain that pre-knowledge was by keeping in contact with, and winning the confidence of Roy and those around him—yes, even to that pseudo Mr. and Mrs. Kane, for instance! Duplicité! She must become a past-mistress in the art of duplicity if she were to have any hope of success whatever.

Well, she had made a beginning. They all thought that early as it was—not much after 9 o'clock—she had settled down for the night, for when Roy had put his head inside the door a little while ago to ask how she was and to say that he was going out, she had told him she was feeling more comfortable and believed she could sleep through the night if she were left undisturbed.

But she, too, was going out! That warning which she had told herself much reach Phil Martin had scarcely been out of her mind. That was where she was going now—to warn Phil.

At the time she had not known how, or seen any way by which this could be done—she had known only that somehow and at all costs she must get word to him. But she believed now that it was not to prove so difficult after all, and that it could even be accomplished with a most perfect safety.

She had realized that she could neither trust nor bribe anyone in the house to help her, that she must depend wholly upon herself, and that to lie there in bed was to accept defeat from the outset. And so, when Roy had left the room that afternoon, she had got out of bed.

She had been a little dizzy but she had been relieved to find that she was not nearly so weak as she had expected. She had walked to the window—and found her problem solved for her. Her room was on the ground floor and only a few feet from the ground itself. It was a few way out, she had told herself, when it got dark.

The rest of the afternoon she had divided between intervals in bed and intervals walking, barefooted, silently, up and down and around the room to accustom herself to the exercise. No one had come near her except Runtz, the little man with the crooked arm, who looked more like a benign old clergyman than a one-time pick-pocket; and he had brought her an excellent poached meal. The Kanes, whether through instructions from Roy or not, had left her to her own devices.

And now the way was clear. Runtz had removed the tray, and Roy had gone out—and she, presumably, had settled down for the night. She was quite sure after what she had said to Roy that no one would come to the room while she was away. It was quite safe—she was confident of that. She had only to slip out of the window and return by the same way when she had accomplished her purpose.

She could not, of course, tell Phil how or by what means she was coming by the knowledge that he was in danger; but, whether she spoke to him personally or reached him by means of a note, she could make it plain and unmistakable to him that he must lie on his guard, and make him realize that, while he did not know the Big Shot, the Big Shot knew him and all about his association with Shive Frank.

She began to put on her hat. It would, with a little delicate coaxing, just slip over the bandage, and, when on, would hide the bandage nicely. But for the first time she hesitated with it during the afternoon, but it was a little more difficult now in the darkness. The bandage must not be disturbed, and—

From somewhere she heard the faint ringing of a bell—the door bell, she supposed. Mechanically she adjusted her hat as she listened. The front door opened and closed, and suddenly she found herself standing tense and rigid as a man's voice harsh and loud with excitement reached her.

"Where's the Big Shot?" he demanded. "Maloch's killed, curse 'em, but—"

"With a coat-a-lugh!" "We got Martin, that snail-neck newspaper fool, all right, and that's—"

"You got your tongue stuck in your voice, interrupted stammer. "The girl's back in there, and—" her voice broke into a savage snarl—"the sweet thing's not to be disturbed. Norry's out. So's everybody else but me. Come into the front room here and tell your story—and I want to talk to you, too."

A door closed softly. Enid could hear no more. There had been something familiar about the man's voice, though she could not place it; the woman, of course, was Mrs. Kane. What had he meant by saying they had "got" Phil?

Her clenched hands opened—she wrung them together. Not dead! He couldn't mean that! They—they hadn't killed Phil! Oh, not that—not that! But what had the man meant?

She must know—no matter what the risk, she must know!

POLICE CHIEF WARNS ABOUT USE OF GUNS

Kaukauna—Chief of Police R. H. McCarty issued a warning against the use of firearms in the city. Several complaints have been made to the police. Tuesday afternoon a bullet from a rifle crashed through a window in the house of Henry Wilpolt, 310 W. Fourth-st., and narrowly missed Mrs. Wilpolt. The bullet probably traveled a great distance as the force of it was well spent. The law against the use of firearms in the city will be strictly enforced, the chief said.

HOT, DRY WEATHER MAY HAMPER WESTERN CROPS

Kansas City —(7)—Mid-summer temperatures, accompanied by hot dry winds, have combined with an unusually dry spring, to menace seriously farm crops of the south-west.

General forecasts of possible showers and cooler weather however, offered some relief to agriculturists of Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas. Unless moisture is received soon considerable damage is certain to result.

Yesterday the thermometer registered 95 degrees at Salina, Kas. A mark of 89 degrees, recorded at Kansas City, established a record in the 41-year history of the local weather bureau.

Tulsa and Oklahoma City reported maximum readings of 90 degrees and Dallas, Texas, 88 degrees.

S. D. Florne, federal meteorologist for Kansas, said "reports indicate that the dry weather has injured wheat over all of the western half of the state and in the southeast portion."

The chest measurement of the recruits in the U. S. navy is the largest of any navy in the world, according to latest statistics. It will be interesting to observe the result of another measurement following the London conference.

RADIO AS POLICE ALLY RECOGNIZED BY FEDERAL BODY

Five Additional Frequencies Designated by Group for Such Use

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—Radio as an ally to police departments in combating crime is recognized in its broadcast aspect by the federal radio commission. Facilities adequate to accommodate the police departments of every city in the country and even of towns have been made available by the commission which at the same time adopted comprehensive regulations to govern this new offshoot of radio.

To augment the three continental short wave channels which only a few months ago were set aside for police agencies in crime detection and criminal apprehension by means of short wave broadcasting, five additional frequencies have been designated. So great has been the demand that the commission was forced to take this step. Already 25 cities have licensed services, while many more applications are pending. And the oldest of these services date back just two years.

All cities in the country with population over 75,000 unquestionably will be assigned licenses for the emergency services, which is described officially in the new regulations as "broadcasting of emergency communications from central police headquarters to squad cars or other mobile units." Cities with smaller populations and even towns can be accommodated, while state "subdivisions" and even states themselves are not precluded.

The carefully phrased language in the new order side-steps any controversy with the state of Michigan which has denied the commission to prevent it from establishing a state-wide police radio service.

The order reads that "licenses for emergency police radio service will be authorized only for municipally controlled stations."

There was some doubt in the mind of this correspondent as to the meaning of the word "municipal," and as to whether it was the intent of the commission definitely to preclude the licensing of states for police radio. When questioned about it, members of the commission explained that "municipal," as defined by law, covers state as well as county or city administrations and that the order was not drafted with the aim of disbaring states, or slapping directly at Michigan.

Because the words are ambiguous, it is believed the commission will amend the language of the order.

NOT ADOPTED POLICY

It was emphasized, however, that the commission has not yet definitely adopted a policy respecting the licensing of individual states for radio. That issue will come up later this month, when the Michigan case is heard by the commission and when Governor Fred C. Green, of the state will profound what the commission believes are revolutionary theories about federal radio administration. The reason the commission adopted the provision as to whether it should license, it is divulged was to prevent private detective agencies and the like from establishing services.

A maximum power of 500 watts is established for police radio stations. Power allocations will be arrived at on the basis of population of the communities, with the maximum accorded to cities of more than 700,000. Should the 500 watt maximum be insufficient to afford reliable coverage over a particular area, the use of additional transmitters will be authorized. Chicago, for example is licensed for three 500-watts transmitters.

Cities under 100,000 are limited to a 50 watt transmitter; 100,000 to 200,000 population, 100 watts; and so on, with each city of an additional 100,000 population allowed an additional 50 watts up to 300 watts. Cities of 600,000 to 700,000 may use 400 watts, with those above the latter figure the 500 watt maximum.

Permits for establishing services will be granted only upon rigid technical conditions that will insure a minimum of interference. It also is specified that the facilities shall be used for "emergency" services only and not for private police communication. The new order will necessitate a reallocation of the present police radio assignments, to avoid interference and since there are a number of stations in cities below 75,000 population using 500 watts.

GOOD REASON FOR BIG DEMAND FOR UTILITY STOCKS

Increased Earnings and Greater Consumption Justifies Tendency

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—The popularity of public utility issues has been one of the significant characteristics of the stock markets for some time. They seem to have supplanted the place once held by railroad stocks in public interest.

The shift of investment is indicated not only by the increased volume of dealings in utilities and the altitudes to which prices have been bid up but also by statistics of investment company portfolios. Reports of such companies reveal a marked preference for stocks of light and power, gas and telephone issues.

An analysis of investments of 19 trusts, with capital resources aggregating one and a half billion dollars, shows that 31.81 per cent of all common stocks held by them were utilities and only 11.31 per cent were railroads. While the balance of 56.88 per cent was divided among bank and insurance stocks and miscellaneous industrial.

That demonstrates the popularity of public utility stocks is more than an investment fact. It is based on a combination of favorable circumstances which point to utilities as desirable securities. One of the most important of these circumstances is the protection from confiscatory rates which court decisions have extended to public service companies. The majority of these decisions have been rendered within the last decade prior to which utility stocks were far from enjoying their present day vogue. Public utility companies for years were regarded as legitimate victims of politicians who curried popular favor by forcing unfair rates upon them. United States supreme court decisions have changed all that.

ASSURED REASONABLE RATES

The outcome has been that rates can be established which assure a reasonable return on invested capital.

ital. That guarantee from confiscation alone, of course, would not insure profits for utility companies. But it so happens that the use of power is expanding consistently year by year. The increase in output of electric power by American companies was 129 per cent from 1922 to 1929 or from 40,000,000 kilowatt hours to more than 89,000,000,000,000.

Revenue from sales of electric service had commensurate growth, jumping from $1,020,438,000 in 1922 to $2,106,000,000 in 1929, the latter figure being partly estimated. In 1912 revenue from sales of electric service aggregated but $236,251,000.

Mergers of utilities have been a factor in their popularity. The speculative line of stocks of companies which are to be merged invariably causes rising prices to "discount" the merger and many rich profits have accrued to fortunate speculators in that way. A more solid basis of appreciation are the economies in production realized by large scale operations directed through a concentration of management and capital, together with increased efficiency of service.

The operating income of 24 telephone companies for 11 months of 1929 was 7.26 per cent higher than for the corresponding period of 1928. The net earnings of 95 other public utility companies for the same period, moreover, were 18.55 per cent higher than in 1928.

MARINETTE FIRM PROTESTS AGAINST RATES ON LUMBER

Two New Plans Are Suggested by Sawyer-Goodman Company

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The Sawyer-Goodman lumber company of Marinette with mills at Goodman, Wis., and Sagola, Mich., is the latest Wisconsin firm to protest the proposed new lumber rates which are scheduled to go into effect in August.

Several Michigan firms joined them in their protest filed with the Interstate Commerce commission. They approve of the present tariff of lumber rates, which is divided in to three groups, with the origin points falling into groups 2 and 3 specifically named, and group 1, consisting of all unnamed points.

They suggest, however, two plans to the commission, which they consider far more desirable than the proposed rates in case a change is needed.

Their propositions are:

1. A regrouping of origin points, but very differently from that proposed in the new tariff;

2. Elimination of the 3 group idea, with one rate from Menominee, Mich., group two's rate from Marquette, Mich., and group three's rate applying from Keweenaw and Manitowish, and the application of group one's rate from all carryover points.

The new rates were to go into effect on January 23, but the commission received so many protests from Wisconsin lumber shippers that it suspended them.

The regrouping suggested by the Marinette company would include Appleton and Green Bay in group one, with the lowest rates.

One protest of the Marinette company is that the proposed rates would deprive the Wisconsin-Michigan Railroad of tonnage which it needs.

This line runs 70 miles between Iron Mountain and Menominee, Mich., and connects with the Soo, which serves Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, and furnishes a direct line to the east through Menominee.

The new rates will apply only from Wisconsin and Michigan to Central Freight Association territory.

MAXTON IS THORN IN LABOR'S FLESH

Veteran Sharpshooter in Power Again as MacDonald Resigns

BY BATES RANEY London—(P)—Resignation of Ramsay MacDonald from the Independent Labor Party has left leadership of that once powerful political organization to James Maxton whose sharpshooting in the House of Commons has brought much embarrassment to the present Labor Government.

The party was established as a political power by the late Kour Harde, Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden. Now it has been repudiated by both MacDonald and Snowden.

The present Chancellor of the Exchequer left the I. L. P. two years ago declaring that it had "outlived its usefulness." Other resignations are expected to follow that of the Prime Minister with the ultimate prospect of a state of open political warfare between the "Maxton sharpshooters" whose battle-cry is "Socialism in Our Time" and the majority of the Laborites in the Commons whose slogan is the "Inevitability of Socialism by Gradualism."

Other members of the government who may let their Independent Labor Party membership lapse, includes Sir Oswald Mosley, Lord Ponsonby, George Lansbury, and Sir Charles Trevelyan.

Their resignations would release the "left wing" members of the Labor party who are also members of the I. L. P. from a large part of their responsibility and loyalty to the Parliamentary Labor Party with a probable result that their embarrasment of the government would grow in intensity.

Maxton and his sharpshooters have often been rebuked in Parliamentary Labor Party meetings for their hostile actions and the proposal was once made that they be expelled from membership from the Parliamentary Labor Party.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

PEAVEY LAKE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Action Places State Nearer Clear Title to Northern Land

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Wisconsin moved a step nearer to its reception of a clear title to more than 200 miles of lake land in the northern part of the state, with the passage by the house of a bill introduced by Representative Hubert Peavey of Washburn. The bill now goes to the senate.

The Peavey bill grants a clear title to Wisconsin to "unappropriated land in meandered areas" which was originally erroneously surveyed and shown as water covered territory.

This land comes between land owned by Wisconsin and the lake's edge, and is causing considerable legal difficulty. Because, under present conditions, a resurvey might create a conflict in title that would cause loss to a purchaser or lessee. Wisconsin can neither improve, sell or lease building sites for summer homes on the lake.

The Peavey bill, which has the approval of the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior, will correct this complication and grant a clear title to the state of Wisconsin.

It was favorably reported to the house by the house committee on public lands, and now having passed the house, it goes to the senate.

FIRE LOSS INCREASED DURING LAST MONTH

Appleton's fire loss in March was $1,200, or more than twice as much as in March, 1929, when the loss was only $530, according to the monthly report of Fire Chief George P. McGulan. The firemen this year answered 22 calls as compared with 20 calls in March, 1929. There were seven grass fires last month; five chimney fires and five fires started from sparks from chimneys. Two automobile fires were caused by short circuits while an overheated stove pipe caused another blaze. Once the firemen were called when escaping smoke caused passersby to believe a fire had started. One false alarm was received.
